RICH, POOR JOIN MOVE TO REBUILD CITY BEAUTIFUL

Santa Barbara Goes Back to Franciscan Friars for Spirit Enabling Them to Turn Ruins Into New Homes

By COPELAND C. BURG
For International News Service.

SANTA BARBARA, June 30.—The spirit of the Franciscan friars who founded this city in 1781 rose to new heights today!

While the dust was unsettled from its earthquake-shaken streets, while bricks still fell from its historic missions and noted hotels and while minor earth tremors continued, Santa Barbara prepared today to build a new and more beautiful city.

With the same spirit with which was builded a new Johnstown, a new San Francisco and a new Galveston, Santa Barbarans pledged themselves to build again, and better.

Graphic Picture of City's Wreckage

In the shadow of the Casa De La Guerra, the historic patio of which Richard Dana told in his famous "Two Years Before the Mast," the city's prominent citizens gathered beneath an ancient pepper tree and arranged to "back to the limit" the new city to come from the wrecked buildings and streets of the "city that was."

From the old mission, built in 1786, the best preserved of all California's old missions, to the new California hotel, opened last week, there is ruin in Santa Barbara; down along State street, the principal thoroughfare of the city, runs an unending story of disaster.

Common bricks are seen standing beside $25 pairs fo shoes thrown from shops catering to Santa Barbara's millionaires; gowns from Paris are blowing from broken shop windows; a parrot in an old Spanish cage sputters in a ruined patio, half-filled with brick and mortar from the wrecks of modern store buildings on all sides, but from these scenes California's city of the rich turned its eyes.

Everyone Talks of Rebuilding Plans

In alleys and on brick piles in the buckled streets, architects spread out plans and designs.

Old Spanish words used in California architecture filled the air.

Santa Barbara planned its new Alhambra!

From the suburb of Montecito, where millionaires' lawns and polo grounds were strewn with debris, to the humble old Spanish, Mexican and Chinese sections ni the heart of the city, new buildings, homes, grounds and streets were discussed.

Row on row, the homes of some of America's richest families sparkled in the sun today, but walls were cracked, chimneys down, gardens wrecked and windows broken.

Tremors Do Not Respect Rich Homes

Like a bluebook of wealth and social power reads the list of damaged Montecito homes, including those of Mrs. John Mitchell, formerly Lolita Armour of Chicago; Mrs. Harry French Knight, widow of Hobart Moore, the "wheat cornerer"; Mrs. Henry E. Bothin, San Francisco; F. F. Peabody of collar fame, and his wife, formerly Kathleen Burke, the war worker; William H. Bliss, New York; Robert Wood Bliss, minister to Sweden; David Gray, Detroit automobile king; David E. Jones, Chicago; William G. McAdoo, Los Angeles; Walter E. Hodges, president of the Santa Fe railway; C. K. G. Billings of race track lore; George Owen Knapp, Chicago millionaire, and Mrs. Colin Campbell, Washington, D. C., beauty, sister of Joseph Leiter.

Then there was Max Fleischman, the Cincinnati yeast king, who came from his partially wrecked home in the nearby Carpinteria valley, to give $5000 to Santa Barbara's relief fund.

"Tell the world Santa Barbara can care for its own," said Fleischman. "The disaster is great, but we all will build anew and better in our beloved city."

Turns Back to Spirit of Franciscans

And Santa Barbara gratefully took the money of Fleischman and the Montecito colony, but turned in the new day for its real strength to "the spirit of the Franciscans."

In the warmth of the sunny California morning there gathered at the old mission the rich and poor; from Montecito rolled the luxurious limousine; from Mexican town walked shawled women with wrinkled brown faces and clear eyes.

There were no tears.

Then from a doorway in the ruins of the old Mission came Father Superior Augustine to give his blessing and to ask God to guide his flock in their new works.

Fathers of Old Mission to Carry On

Father Augustine prayed and said:

"There is a spirit of the Franciscan fathers that cannot die. It is this spirit that has just prompted me to order all the fathers to remain at the old mission. It is badly damaged, but we will stay here and with the rest of Santa Barbara build and restore as the fathers before us.

"We shall 'carry on' for the order in meeting this disaster as the Franciscan fathers met the terrors of the west more than a century ago. And the Holy Father bless you all."

LOOT CHURCH OF SACRED FITTINGS

Vandals Make Away With Valuables, Using Passes To Escape Guards

SANTA BARBARA, June 30.—The Guadalupe church, principal place of worship of Mexican residents in Santa Barbara, early today was looted of its sacramental vessels by earthquake vandals.

Gold and silver chalices, images and altar cloths and tall gold candlesticks used in celebrating high masses were removed from their places before the altar. The value of the stolen vessels was placed at several thousand dollars by police officers.

Two men, said to have been driving a red Ford truck, backed their machine before the smashed doors of the wrecked building at Montecito and Milpas streets, shortly after midnight.

Get Through Lines

No attention was paid to them, as armed guards who patrolled the block had not considered the possibilities of church sacking being added to the temblor's horrors.

Shortly after the quake at 1:22 a. m. this morning the two men driving the truck, inquired of Los Angeles policemen on duty here the way to get out of the city. They said they were going to San Francisco and displayed night police line passes.

A few minutes after they had been permitted to pass and had disappeared down the debris lined street, two Boy Scouts entering the church discovered that the house of worship had been pillaged.

It was then that police and militiamen comparing notes, suspected the men in the red truck.

The entire city was searched for them, but it was found that they were gone. Word was flashed to authorities in cities to the north to intercept them.

Debt Payment Notice Is Served On Italy

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Secretary of State Kellogg has served notice on the Italian debt commissioners here that the United States expects payments on Italy's $2,000,000,000 debt to begin at once and that no moratorium will be granted, it was learned this afternoon.

The plan of the Italian government for funding its $2,000,000,000 debt to the United States will not be submitted to the American debt funding commission until August, it was learned officially this afternoon.

The present informal conferences which Ambassador Martino and Minister Alberti have started here, are for the purpose of laying the groundwork for later negotiations. The negotiations today adjourned until August.

Sailor Gives Life For Passengers In Blaze

SYDNEY, N. S. W., June 30.—Reginald Crayphorne, member of the crew of the steamer Canberra, gave his life today in the effort to rescue passengers of the steamer as it lay blazing at the docks here. Forty passengers were aboard when the liner caught fire. Crayphorne made five trips to the burning vessel and four times brought passengers ashore. He did not return from the fifth trip.

Better and More Beautiful City Will Rise From Ruins, Predicts William G. McAdoo

By WILLIAM GIBBS McADOO
Former Secretary of the United States Treasury
Written Exclusively for International News Service

SANTA BARBARA, June 30.—Destruction today in Santa Barbara is serious, but it should not be disheartening to this city, to California or to the nation.

Santa Barbara is the city of the rich and it will be able to take care of itself, with small temporary aid. I arrived here immediately after the quake and have checked the situation thoroughly.

This city had a quake 113 years ago and from the ruins rose the fair Santa Barbara we knew yesterday.

From the stricken streets a better and more beautiful city will grow.

The thing to do is to build, and Santa Barbara is starting this gigantic task today. There are plenty of bankers in all parts of the country ready to supply Santa Barbara's residents with money for this work.

Temporary burdens may be too great for the city, but all California is with us. We know the nation has stood loyally behind the city in the first critical hours. Los Angeles and surrounding cities gave much and offered all.

The death list is small, and while all portions of the city have been damaged to some extent, the property damage will not be as great as estimated.

As did San Francisco, as all cities have given birth to greater things after disaster, so will Santa Barbara.

FAMOUS MISSION TO BE REBUILT AT ONCE

Seek Restoration Fund to Help In Work; Bravery of Father Saves Lives of People at Prayer

SANTA BARBARA, June 30.—Old Mission Santa Barbara, one of the most picturesque of the California missions, and mecca for hundreds of globe-trotters and sightseers, will be restored to its former glory at once.

Although suffering severe damage from the quake which rocked this city early yesterday, the torn parts of the old structure will be rebuilded by the same order of the Franciscan padres who toiled in erecting it 139 years ago. Such was a statement issued here today by Father Augustan Halbrecht, superior of the mission who took steps toward securing funds needed for reconstruction.

Messages were sent by Father Augustan to Governor Richardson and the mayors of several cities in the state asking for assistance in raising a restoration fund. Civic organizations will also be asked to aid in the work.

Leading the way through the fallen debris outside the chapel and down the old corridors whose sturdiness withstood the temblors which partially destroyed the mission in 1812, Father Augustan gave a dramatic account of the quake of yesterday.

Thirty persons were attending mass which was being read by Father Rappael at the moment the first shock set the mission in motion. Through the coolness of the father, a panic was averted when he called upon those kneeling to remain inside until the shaking ceased. All of these passed out of the chapel over the fallen ruins of the historic old towers a few minutes later.

Living quarters in the mission were practically reduced to a chaotic condition and although two of the fathers suffered falls in making their escape, none were injured.

No Shocks In Stricken City Since This Morning

SANTA BARBARA, June 30.—Without a single tremor on record since 5:55 o'clock this morning, Santa Barbara tonight was believed to have passed a crisis of its earthquake disaster. This afternoon was hot but a brisk breeze was blowing and the weather was far from sultry.

With a secession of the earthquake shocks the city became more normal. A few stores outside the badly wrecked area were opened and groceries and meats were sold. The water supply was investigated and found adequate.

Hundreds flocked to lawns and streets tonight. Women appeared in bright colored summer dresses and united families gathered for supper around the yard or before the bonfires.

The death list remained at eleven. The bodies of two men, employes of the San Marcos building, were sought by the tired debris workers. More than fifty men and four steam shovels were employed in searching the San Marcos ruins and 500 laborers worked in other sections of the tremor-hit business section in search of the bodies of additional victims possibly buried in fallen buildings.

J. W. Richardson Assumes Charge Of Relief Work

SANTA BARBARA, June 30.—J. W. Richardson, hero of the San Francisco disaster, director of the western division of the American Red Cross, with six nurses and two truck loads of food, arrived in Santa Barbara today. Richardson immediately assumed charge of the relief work over the city and will remain on duty until the situation is such that no further relief measures will be needed.

Food, clothing, medical supplies, tents and other articles arrived in Santa Barbara through the afternoon and night in large quantities from many Southern California cities. Ventura sent enough bread to feed the entire city of Santa Barbara for twenty-four hours.

Guest At Hotel Tells About Quake Experience

SAN LUIS OBISPO, June 30.—"The first shock woke me up," said R. H. Cyr, guest at the Hotel Barbara, which was partly demolished in the earthquake at Santa Barbara yesterday. "The room seemed to be rocking, giving a sensation similar to dizziness. I could hear a terrific rumbling, accompanied by the cracking of the framework in the building.

"Hurriedly putting on clothes, I rushed to the door, only to find that the lock had been jammed. By this time the second shock had started. It was even worse than the first. I could hear women screaming and men cursing in the hallway, striving to escape.

"I realized I was in a dangerous predicament and grabbed a chair and began franctically beating the door down. It was tough, but I was desperate. It finally splintered an aperture large enough to squeeze through, and rushed out to the street to safety. The third shock came as I emerged from the building."

SUPPLIES FOR NEEDY POUR INTO CITY

Many Communities Aid In Relief; Make Estimates Of Property Damage

SANTA BARBARA, June 30.—Two minor fires threw new terror in this ravaged city today. The flames, however, were quickly controlled and no damage was done nor was the city seriously threatened by fire.

One of the flares was a burning truck in the damaged business section, and the other a rubbish fire, temporarily out of control in the historic Patio De La Guerra at the city plaza.

While plans were made at a mass meeting of welfare workers and officials to care for the needy and hungry, food, bedding and various supplies poured into Santa Barbara.

Plenty of Supplies

Los Angeles, Ventura, Oxnard and many nearby cities dispatched truck load after truck load of supplies and food. The shipments were piled high on the plaza.

Santa Barbara is not, strictly speaking, under martial law, Lieutenant-Colonel W. H. Fairbanks, Signal Reserve corps, explained.

No official proclamation ordering martial law has been issued. The military, however, is in charge of policing and is the high authority in matters of movements through the streets, clearing of debris and sanitation.

Mayor Andera said the assistance of the naval reserve militia and men from warcraft in the harbor was essential, but he did not think actual martial law was needed.

Estimate Damage

Mayor Andera, Herbert Nunn, city manager, and Councilman C. F. Freeman, appointed a reclamation committee, estimated the city's damage under $10,000,000.

L. C. Simpson, editor of the Santa Barbara News, said the damage would total $10,000,000.

All the city banks, it is known, carried earthquake insurance. Only a few merchants had quake insurance.

Fire Chief A. H. Collier said the damage could not be accurately estimated at this time.

"Anyone who attempts to estimate the losses at this time is a fool," said the chief.

Two members of the board of Pacific Coast Board of Underwriters made an inspection of the damaged buildings. They refused to make a statement, declaring weeks would be required to estimate losses.

Many Offers of Aid

Telegrams, offering assistance by means of both men and money, were pouring into Chamber of Commerce headquarters.

San Francisco sent an offer for the use of two large theatres to raise relief funds. Other wires were received from Chambers of Commerce in Pasadena, Ventura, Berkeley, Eureka, Santa Cruz, San Leandro, Bakersfield, Turlock and San Diego, Cal., and Lewiston, Idaho.

After a two hours' respite, following an all-night shift, workers resumed digging for bodies in State street debris.

Secretary Wilbur Talks About Coast Earthquakes

CHICAGO, June 30.—Secretary of the Navy Wilbur visiting in Chicago, today on his way to the wedding of his son in Palo Alto, Cal., on July 6, was inclined to "talk down" the Santa Barbara earthquake.

"I've lived out there 35 years and been shaken up a lot of times," he said, "but usually when the final check-up is made conditions are found to be much better than the reports that go out through the east would indicate."

A visit with Vice-President Dawes and an inspection of the Great Lakes naval training station to which he said no extensions are planned, used his day, while Mrs. Wilbur visited Mrs. Leo Richards, whose mother was Secretary Wilbur's sister, and who is a distant relative to General Dawes.

CLEARING HOUSE ASSOCIATION IN APPEAL FOR AID

Seeks $20,000,000 for Building Plans And $2,000,000 for Individual Use In Raising City From Debris

BULLETIN

SANTA BARBARA, June 30.—The Santa Barbara State Normal school will be repaired immediately, Governor Friend W. Richardson declared here today. Governor Richardson arrived by auto from San Luis Obispo at noon and went at once to headquarters of the civic relief committee at the city plaza. He was accompanied by Mrs. Richardson and his secretary. The governor was given an escort of armed sailors for a brief inspection of the city. He will leave late this afternoon for Ventura.

SANTA BARBARA, June 30.—A call was put out by the Clearing House association late this morning for a $20,000,000 revolving fund to be used in the reconstruction of the city.

The loan fund is to be advanced under Santa Barbara supervision on first mortgages up to 60 per cent conservative appraisal value, the loans to run for five years at 6 per cent.

An earthquake aid fund of $2,000,000 for individual subscription was also asked. It was announced repayment of this fund was planned.

San Francisco and Los Angeles were asked to send structural engineers here to act in an advisory capacity to the city government in an immediate survey for reconstruction.

Governor Leaves For Quake City To Offer State Help

SACRAMENTO, June 30.—Word was received at the governor's office here today that Governor Richardson has left San Luis Obispo for Santa Barbara to offer assistance of the state government in aiding the stricken city.

H. R. Braden, state budget-maker, also left for the southern city, following receipt of a telegram from President C. L. Phelps of Santa Barbara State Teachers' college, stating that the college had been badly damaged by the earthquake and that immediate reconstruction would be necessary.

A telegram was received at the executive offices today from the conference of governors of Poland Springs, Maine, representing forty states, expressing sympathy and offering aid. It was signed by Governor Lee Trinkle of Virginia, chairman of the convention, and Governor C. A. Hardee of Florida, secretary of the organization.

Ole Hanson Writes Story Of Experiences In Quake

By OLE HANSON
Famous "Fighting Mayor" of Seattle, Now a Resident of Santa Barbara
Written for International News Service

SANTA BARBARA, June 30.—There are no cowards in Santa Barbara, just as there were no cowards in San Francisco.

Santa Barbara, queen of old Spanish California, is rising today from her ruins more beautiful than ever.

Yesterday's quake is now forgotten—we are looking forward—but it is only today that I have been able to write my story of what happened.

I was in bed reading. It was 6:45 a. m. I heard a crunch as if a million dogs were crunching bones and then the bed started to sway. The floor rose up.

I jumped from the bed but was unable to keep my feet. I awakened my family and rushed them out into the park. The ground undulated like small waves. The houses tipped and cavorted like a canoe back of a stern wheel steamer.

I heard a rending of brick and mortar and steel and the California hotel a block away opened up exactly like a wardrobe trunk.

The outer wall fell out and left the beds and furniture standing upright. People jumped from the beds; the hotel was full. In nightgowns and pajamas the guests burst into the hall and escaped to the open air.

A blue light flamed into the heavens, blazed and blazed and blazed and then went out. The light and power were gone.

This wreck of the power house saved Santa Barbara from fire. The buildings then crashed one after another on State street. I looked up the business street. The buildings reeled like drunken men. The ground continued its shaking.

Phone Communication With Santa Barbara Is Resumed

LOS ANGELES, June 30.—Uninterrupted long-distance telephone communication between Santa Barbara and the outside world was reported as again normal today by the Southern California Telephone Co. Unlimited conversation at regular commercial rates will be allowed.

A temporary structure to house exchange equipment and twenty-six operators was erected near the wrecked exchange in Santa Barbara, and forty linemen put to work restoring local service there, it was announced.

Authorities Searching For Jewelry Lost In Wreckage

SANTA BARBARA, June 30.—One hundred and fifty thousand dollars in jewelry was lost in the wing of the Arlington hotel, wrecked by Monday's earthquake, according to the police here today. Detectives this afternoon had recovered $8000 of this amount, $5,000 worth of which belonged to Mrs. C. E. Perkins of Burlington, Iowa, listed among the dead. Mrs. Perkins' jewels were found in a black traveling bag amid the debris of the ruined hotel wing.

Handbills As Newspapers; Council Meets on Street

SANTA BARBARA, June 30.—This was a city of makeshift today. All cafes, stores, markets, theatres were closed.

Red Cross workers fed the homeless at stands in the streets, ham sandwiches and black coffee was the universal menu.

Benches and boxes formed the equipment of an army of news workers. There were no typewriters. Automobile batteries

U. S. CABINET'S WEALTH TO FACE CUT

Resignation Of Secretary Weeks To Result In Reducing Capital

By ROBERT T. SMALL
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The forthcoming resignation of John W. Weeks as secretary of war, will reduce the wealth of President Coolidge's cabinet by several millions of dollars. The exact Bradstreet rating of the Cabinet as it stands today—six millionaires and four "poor" men—has never been computed, although it has been the subject of much speculation here in Washington.

Some financial experts have estimated the cabinet wealth as being in the neighborhood of $720,000,000. The secretary of the treasury, Mr. Mellon, would make any cabinet the richest ever known in American history, but in the Coolidge advisory board he is joined by other millionaires who swell the total of wealth to an unprecedented sum. The six millionaires of the cabinet rated according to popular belief as to relative wealth, are as follows:

Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury.
Herbert C. Hoover, secretary of commerce.
Frank B. Kellogg, secretary of state.
John W. Weeks, secretary of war.
James J. Davis, secretary of labor.
Hubert C. Work, secretary of the interior.

The non-millionaires of the cabinet, without relative rating as to "poorness," are as follows:

Curtis Wilbur, secretary of the navy.
Harry S. New, postmaster general.
William M. Jardine, secretary of agriculture.
John G. Sargent, attorney general.

There is no means of computing Mr. Mellon's wealth. He is unquestionably in the very comfortable position of not being able to tell within $10,000,000 or $20,000,000 himself. There have been computations of the Mellon fortune as high as $600,000,000 and some as low as $300,000,000. He generally is conceded to be one of the three richest of Americans, ranking with the Rockfellers and the Fords.

Despite the fact that Mr. Mellon says the rich men of the country need no guardians nor protection as to the various ways of investing their money so as to escape a heavy income penalty, the secretary himself last year paid a tax into the government of more than $1,000,000, which would pay his salary as secretary for something like seventy years. All of which proves that in Mr. Mellon the government has a very sound investment. The Mellon fortune was made in various ways, in railroads, banking and oil as well as steel. It has many ramifications.

Hoover's Wealth

Secretary Hoover generally is rated as the second richest man in the cabinet, but here again nothing like a precise estimate has been made. Washington believes the secretary of commerce to be worth anywhere from $8,000,000 to $10,000,000, possibly much more. Mr. Hoover made his money in mining and other investment. He has had mining interests all over the world.

Secretary Kellogg is what might be called a very quiet and unobtrustive millionaire. Few of his old colleagues in the Senate realized how much he was worth. Today his fortune has been estimated at $5,000,000, most of it accumulated in a very lucrative practice of the law. When Mr. Kellogg left the Senate he probably was the richest "lame-duck," of recent years, "excusing" Colonel T. Coleman DuPont, who lost to a Democrat in 1922, but who has now come back in triumph from the little state of Delaware.

Secretary Weeks' fortune was made as a banker and a broker, when he was a member of the Boston firm of Hornblower and Weeks.

Financial Captains

Secretary Davis, the richest man ever to hold the labor portfolio in a cabinet, began life in this country as an iron peddler. He became a millionaire through his work in organizing the Loyal Order of Moose and as a banker in Mr. Mellon's home town of Pittsburgh.

Secretary Work, probably the "leanest" of the cabinet millionaires, accumulated his fortune through practice of medicine, through careful investment and the establishment of a sanitarium.

Secretaries Wilbur and Jardine, Postmaster New and Attorney General Sargent have journeyed through life without feeling the "thrill" of great riches or the impulse to get them. When Secretary Weeks resigns, as it is understood his family is now trying to induce him to do at an early date, there will be much speculation as to the financial standing of his successor. Once the Senate was known as the millionaires' club. Today the cabinet has won the soubriquet.

French recruiting officers make no investigations if an applicant can pass the physical tests.

READY FOR FIRE PATROL

SAN DIEGO, June 30.—Ten reserve pilots of the United States Army air service arrived here today to take charge of planes made ready for them at Rockwell field. They will establish an air patrol over the southland forests beginning July 1 under the direction of the department of agriculture.

EXODUS FROM VALLEY

EL CENTRO, June 30.—With a two-day Fourth of July holiday this week a general exodus of all residents who can afford a summer's vacation by the seaside has already started in the Imperial valley, the hothouse of America. With 80 per cent of the vegetable crops shipped to market and the temperature holding at 112 in the shade today everyone is living in anticipation of the holiday season.

PIECES OF EIGHT

SANTA BARBARA, June 30.—Pieces of eight, coinage of 1925, will be placed in circulation here July 1 by Superintendent Walter Erwin of the Santa Barbara street railways system. Eight cent slugs, in lieu of tickets, will be sold passengers, he states.

TO TEACH PRINTING

SANTA ANA, June 30.—Installation of a complete printing plant in Santa Ana high school for vocational education will be accomplished this summer according to Principal D. K. Hammond who says that with the practical elimination of the apprentice system in the printing trade large establishments have come to look to the high schools for operators of linotypes and other machinery.

FREAK WIND, FREAK STORY

RIVERSIDE, June 30.—A wind and rain storm, accompanied by lightning, is reported to have damaged several umbrella trees in the vicinity of Moreno, "All of which goes to prove," says Hi Martin, "that the trees run true to their umbrella name." Heavy rains over the week-end in the San Jacinto and San Bernardino mountains keep those breathing spots cool for a record crowd of summer campers.

VISITS NATURE'S ROCK PILE

SAN DIEGO, June 30.—P. R. Hough, field secretary of the National Conference of Outdoor Recreation, with headquarters at Washington, D. C., is en route to Jacumba Hot Springs today where he will inspect nature's rock pile in the San Diego mountains. Boulders 200 feet high are to be seen balanced on smaller boulders, he was informed.

CHILDREN HAVE PICNIC

Members of the 7-B Sunday school class in the junior department of Glendale Presbyterian church held a picnic yesterday at Brookside park. Mrs. John H. Ball is teacher and prepared a delicious picnic lunch which was served at noon. Games were played, prizes being awarded to the winners. Eight members of the class were present.

FIND NEW GRETNA GREEN

SANTA ANA, June 30.—This city gained national advertising as a "Gretna Green" in statistics given out by the United States census bureau, showing that this haven of hasty, or quiet, marriages has placed the Orange county marriage rate in ninth position among the counties of the United States.

No other county in California and only eight counties in America equaled the Orange county rate of sixty marriages per 1000 population.

Attention of the census bureau was attracted to the local rate and that of the thirty other "Gretna Greens," because the county rate so far exceeded the state rate. Orange county's rate, for instance, was more than four times as great as the California state marriage rate, which was 14.5.

BICYCLE VICTIM BETTER

Otis Christmas of 1607 South Adams street, is recovering from injuries received in an accident June 19, when his bicycle skidded. He suffered a broken clavicle and dislocated shoulder. It was necessary for attending physicians to operate in order to splice the broken bone.

WAR MOTHERS INVITED

An invitation to attend patriotic services at Glendale Presbyterian church Sunday, July 5, at 7:30 o'clock, given members of Lester Meyer Chapter, American War Mothers of Glendale, has been accepted. Members will meet at the church at 7:15 o'clock and attend services in a body.

One horsepower is equal to 746 watts.

COOLIDGE LEAVES FATHER IMPROVES

Aged Man Put In Care Of President's Physician To Prevent Relapse

PLYMOUTH, Vt., June 30.—President and Mrs. Coolidge virtually assured of the recovery of the executive's 80-year-old father, Col. John C. Coolidge, left here this morning to motor back to Swampscott, Mass., to resume their summer vacation.

Major James F. Coupal, the president's personal physician, remained behind to aid Dr. A. M. Cram of Bridgewater in treating the senior Coolidge.

Specialist Called

On Thursday Dr. Carl Schute, nationally known genito-urinary specialist from Boston, who operated on Colonel Coolidge last Saturday, will return to Plymouth for another diagnosis to determine whether a second operation will be necessary. One is not contemplated at present, but the attending physicians, in view of the colonel's advanced age and weak heart, are taking no chances.

CHEST DRIVE PLANS ARE PREPARED

No Paid Executive Will Be Hired and Expense Can Be Cut Materially

Plans for the 1925-26 Community Chest drive, to take place around October 12 or 15, were announced today by W. E. Hewitt, president of the chest organization.

A new system for collecting necessary funds will be inaugurated this year under the direct supervision of D. Ripley Jackson who has been appointed general chairman of the campaign committee. Jackson will announce appointment of majors who will form his executive committee and handle details of the drive shortly, he said.

No paid executive to manage the drive will be employed this year, Hewitt announced. Jackson and his aides will handle all the work.

Work From Postoffice

Chest campaign headquarters will be opened in the Glendale postoffice building about August 1. Here all organization work will be taken care of under Jackson's supervision. A week or ten days before the start of the drive, envelopes, containing a file index on the outside, will be mailed to every home in the city. Instructions will accompany these envelopes. All envelopes will have to be returned to drive workers who will visit a week later whether a contribution is made to the chest or not.

In this way virtually all clerical work and bookkeeping will be dispensed with and the cost of the drive reduced materially.

Committee chairmen were announced by Hewitt. They will be: Finance, D. H. Smith; budget, R. F. Kitterman; publicity, Burton McGinnis; campaign, Jackson.

Cadman Will Conduct Concert In Sanitarium

Charles Wakefield Cadman, composer-pianist, is to give a concert at 7 o'clock tonight at Glendale Sanitarium. The program will include many of his own compositions. Cadman returned recently from Portland, Ore., where he directed at the Rose Festival. Preceding the program tonight Cadman and his mother will be dinner guests at the sanitarium.

PICNIC FOR SOCIETY

Members of the Girls' Friendly society, St. Mark's branch, held a picnic last night at Brookside park, Pasadena, thirty members and guests being present. Before the supper members went in swimming and later had a picnic supper. Mrs. E. H. Parker and Mrs. Annette Powers were in charge of the meal. Guests were Mrs. E. P. Arthur of Eagle Rock and Mrs. R. L. Humphrey, mother of Mrs. Parker.

Norse Commemorative Stamps Issue on Sale

Norse commemorative postage stamps, issued by the United States in honor of the landing of the first Norwegian colony in America, were placed on sale today at the Glendale postoffice. The stamps will not be generally circulated, according to Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson. Only a limited supply will be available here.

The commemorative stamps are of two and five cent denomination and are somewhat smaller than the Lexington-Concord stamps now being sold. The two cent stamp is red with a black center. Blue with a black center is used in the case of the five cent issue.

PROCLAMATION ON FILM BY MAYOR

Legion Picture Emphasized As Worth Seeing And Is For Worthy Cause

Harry G. MacBain, mayor of the city of Glendale, has issued the following proclamation relative to the American Legion picture to be shown at the Glendale theatre Wednesday and Thursday:

"I, Harry G. MacBain, by virtue of my office as mayor of Glendale proclaim to the people of the city, that upon Wednesday and Thursday there will be exhibited at the Glendale theatre the war time film made by the United States government on the battle front in France, known as 'Over the Top With the Allies,' for the purpose of securing a quota of $4,000 asked of the local American Legion post as their share of the national endowment fund of $5,000,000 for the benefit of the uncared for children of these men who, in this panorama of death and anguish are seen to fall dying.

"No greater lesson in the horrors of war has even been seen. No greater opportunity has ever been presented for an exhibition of gratitude to these men shown dying in this official film, than is offered by the support of this fund through subscription or the purchase of tickets to these performances.

Money for Fund

"The receipts of each showing will be devoted to the great fund which is being contributed to lavishly by the people of the United States everywhere, through voluntary subscriptions.

"We in Glendale, by attending the showing of these pictures have the privilege of reviewing the tragedies from which the call upon us arises.

"If the showings are well attended, there will be no further call upon us. If we do not attend, we convict ourselves to an indifference to those who should have first call upon us, the little ones whose fathers died for their country. Eleven cameramen died in action to make these pictures—so that you, the people, may know. Some will slack. Some will not care. Surely you are not one of these.

"HARRY G. MacBAIN,
"Mayor of Glendale."

REALTORS JOIN IN WAR ON TAX LAW

Glendale and Pasadena Ask Repeal of Inheritance Bill As Iniquitous

Joining with realtors of Pasadena, the Glendale Realty board is expected to take a leading part in the fight to have the California inheritance tax law repealed by referendum vote at the 1926 general election.

Following an address by Robert A. Swink, past president of the Pasadena board, and now vice president of the California Real Estate association, in which he denounced the inheritance tax law as "California's greatest barrier to progress," the Glendale realtors have organized to help force the repeal of the law.

The Realty board will go on record against the inheritance tax when members meet Wednesday noon. Later it is planned to devote more time to the subject when leading figures now engaged in the fight against the act, will be invited to speak here.

Is Major Issue

So serious do the realtors consider the damage being done by the California inheritance law which places the inheritance tax rate among the highest in the nation, that they plan to make it one of their major issues for the remainder of the year. Pasadena and Glendale are among the first realty boards in the state to take up the fight against the inheritance tax.

In his address before the local board, Swink declared that eastern capital, needed for the development of western industries, was being driven from California by the inheritance tax laws. He assailed the laws as unjust and discriminatory and against the first principles of legal taxation.

Move To Save Trees Aided By Girl Scouts

Participating in the notion-wide movement among Girl Scouts to save trees, Glendale Girl Scouts were instrumental recently in having a huge palm tree transplanted from the Frank Spiers home on South Verdugo road, to Patterson Park. Mrs. Anna L. La Grange, local Scout executive, was in charge of the project.

MEDAL WINNERS TO PLAY

Eddie Ulrich, winner of the gold medal for the city of Los Angeles and of the gold medal for the state of California in the recent Eisteddfod contests, will play two numbers Wednesday night, July 1, at the piano recital given by by pupils of Alberta M. Green at the Van Grove studio, 337 North Brand boulevard. The young violinist is a pupil of Florence Norman-Shaw, concert violinist and teacher. He is 8 years old and has studied only three years. His playing, which has won him honors, is said to be accurate and artistic.

SEEK DISPENSATION FOR ATWATER LODGE

Fred H. Chapman Appears Before High Officials of Masonic Order and Makes Formal Request

Fred H. Chapman, master of Atwater Masonic lodge appeared before grand lodge inspectors at Los Angeles today and formally requested a dispensation for the newly formed Atwater lodge. Following an investigation the request will be passed on to grand lodge headquarters for action. It is expected that the dispensation will be granted within ten or fifteen days.

The board of directors of the Atwater Masonic building association will meet tonight at the office of Arthur M. Gilman at 3218 Glendale boulevard, to adopt constitution and by-laws and approve articles of incorporation. The association will incorporate for $15,000. Approximately $10,000 will be expended in building the proposed Masonic temple in the district. The remainder of the $15,000, which is to be raised through sale of stock, will go to buy a building site on Glendale boulevard.

Definite decision on the site for the new building will be made at the regular meeting of Atwater lodge Thursday night at the office of R. M. Sanders, 3167 Glendale boulevard.

Seek More Crossings

In an effort to secure at least two more crossings over the Pacific Electric right-of-way between Los Angeles river and San Fernando road. C. E. Micheal, chairman of the transportation committee of the Atwater Improvement association, held conferences with the Los Angeles Traffic commission, officials of the Southern California Automobile club and the Los Angeles police authorities late this afternoon.

Micheal asked first, that the crossing at Gardena avenue, on the Glendale side of the line, be reopened immediately, and secondly, that a new crossing be installed somewhere in the Atwater district proper. He urged that the Traffic commission, Auto club and police officials back a request to the Railroad commission seeking opening of these crossings.

New Postal Location

The Glendale postoffice substation located in the Gateway market, San Fernando road and Brand boulevard, and serving postal patrons of the Atwater district, will be moved to a new location somewhere in the immediate vicinity, according to an announcement today by Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson. Although the sub-station will be moved from the Gateway Market building, it will not be discontinued, Postmaster Jackson said. Definite location of the new substation will be announced as soon as a contract has been signed, he said.

Warns Against Fires

A second warning to residents of the Atwater district not to burn rubbish and trash out of hours was issued by the Los Angeles police department today. Complaints which prompted the police to give a warning against infraction of the burning ordinance several weeks ago, have continued to be turned in. Prosecution under the ordinance, calling for fine and imprisonment, will result unless the illegal burning practice is discontinued at once, it was declared by police.

Gates-Overholt Wedding

Beautiful in all its appointments was the wedding of Miss Rosalind Gates of 1919 Cerro Gordo street, and E. Llewellyn Overholt of Los Angeles which was solemnized last night, Monday, June 29, 1925 at 8:30 o'clock at Wilshire Presbyterian church. Dr. J. A. Eby, pastor of the church performed the ceremony. Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Ruth Peterson sang, "Lift Up Thine Eyes" and "Because" with S. P. Peas, church organist, playing the accompaniment. Mr. Peas also played the wedding march which announced the entrance of the bridal party. The Atwater Girl's Glee Club sang, "Thank God for a Garden."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her mother, Mrs. Emily E. Gates, wore a wedding dress fashioned of white silk crepe and old lace which has been in the family for a century. Her veil was made of tulle and rose point lace and was held in place with a band of pearls and cluster of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of white rosebuds and lilies-of-the-valley. Mrs. Inness Gates, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. Both wore pink georgette dresses and carried spring bouquets. Bridesmaids were Misses Esther Eby, Audrey Clinton, Danna Osgood and Madaline Davies. All wore dresses of georgette in pastel shades and carried spring bouquets.

Alice and George Gates, niece and nephew of the bride, served as flower girl and ring bearer. Leon George Caplin served as best man. Ushers were: Horace Judson, Earl Kelley, Maurette Clarkson Foss and Charles Spring. After the ceremony a reception for relatives and members of the bridal party was held at the Gates home. During the reception a program was given as follows; Charles Spring, John Pearson and Miss Hildred Anderson, vocal solos; Miss Adele Lloyd, readings; Miss Marion Scheler, ballet solo dances.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Overholt left for a honeymoon trip to the northern part of the state. They will reside at 1919 Cerro Gordo street on their return. Mrs. Overholt is principal of the Atwater school and will resume her duties there this fall. She is a member of Sigma Alpha Kappa sorority, of University of California southern branch; Delta Phi Lambda and Wa-Wan club. Overholt is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer E. Overholt of Hollywood. He is an attorney in Los Angeles and is a graduate of Michigan State college, Lansing Michigan, University of Michigan, at Ann Arbor; and University of Southern California. He is also a member of Alpha Beta, Gamma Lambda Epsilon fraternities and Gamma Eta Gamma.

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

Men's souls are tried in time of disaster! This writer was among the first of the newspaper men outside of Santa Barbara to see from the sky what damage had been wrought. And continuing temblors were more trying to those residents who feared to sleep in their own homes, who feared to traverse the main streets of the city with its tottering ruins.

Yet they are courageous and brave. Knowing not the future and what it holds in store they today face the dreary work of reconstruction, not only of physical buildings, but fortunes swept away in less than a minute. Their faith that God is good, despite the tragedy wrought in their midst, sustains them.

Indeed, a fighting spirit rather than a vindictive mood is seen. For those who have homes and stores left, and few homes happily were set awry, they seek to assist the rehabilitation of their less fortunate townsmen who have staked their all with fate, as it were, and lost.

Santa Barbara is just as good as the next town. There's no telling where catastrophe comes next. It may be New York, London, Paris or Pueblo, again. San Francisco came through its holocaust with flying colors. Chicago rose from the ashes.

Glendale should do its share toward aiding Santa Barbara in whatever way possible. Of course, it will. Charity is not so necessary to the people there, although relief funds should be subscribed readily in case of need.

What Santa Barbara asks is a revolving loan fund for the purpose of rebuilding. Bankers, business men and others who know how necessary ready cash becomes in such a crisis, should rise to the emergency. Already a half million of two and one half million asked has been subscribed in the state.

An oversubscription of faith in the future of Santa Barbara would cause those distressed, but not at all pessimistic people, to shed a tear of joy.

In other columns the story of destruction, like chapter upon chapter, is recounted. To turn to a more airy subject, the development of the airplane which took this writer to Santa Barbara, Ventura, and back to Santa Barbara and then home again in less than half the time required by motorcar, is worthy of comment.

First, a word of praise for the pilot, Bob Starkey, who not so many years ago was delivering The Glendale Evening News. He now maintains an air taxi at the airport here. It is a Kinner airster, made in Glendale, with a three cylinder engine developing up to seventy-five horsepower and driving the "flivver" plane to altitudes over 6000 feet, the writer noted. It thrived yesterday on commercial gasoline, it landed where other machines dared not because of their weight.

And best of all it was so masterfully controlled by a stripling youth, and so easy to control, that the writer almost sought the opportunity of handling the stick and rudders—fear was absolutely non-existent.

Another newspaper correspondent arriving by plane in Santa Barbara declared he was going to return on a motorbus. Yet the writer believes that the age of airplane reporting has arrived and if there were sufficient money therein, we would invest in a Kinner machine.

FASHION GRINS AT SUMMER IMPISHLY

Double-Breasted Top Coats Are In Style; Turquoise Stages Comeback

By AILEEN LAMONT
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, June 30.—If love laughs at locksmiths, fashion grins merrily at weather. The newest summer top coats are double breasted! The materials, however, are tweeds of the lightest and most attractive weaves, with silk linings. The backs of the coats are of the semi-fitted type and long wide revers are a feature of the fronts of the garments.

The torquoise is staging a comeback, according to dicta from Paris. Reports by returned travelers indicate turquoise blue is being used widely for sweaters and summer gowns and even for evening dresses. In some instances black or white silk voile gowns are embroidered or beaded with turquoises, either real or imitation.

Dancing Knickers

Frills and flounces have reached a new place in lingerie. The latest example of camiknickers from London just arrived here have a perfectly plain georgette vest while the nether portion consists of tightly fitting legs trimmed by row on row of dainty narrow lace flounces. They are supposed to be especially adaptable for dancing in the short skirts which the present fashion decrees.

Models who show dresses in the smart shops now are being allowed a little more latitude. For a long time more longitude was the main thing demanded of them but with the advent of the gown which has a tight fitting bodice, is tight at the hips and has ampleness at the bottom, the plumper models are desired.

Choral Club Members Arrange Beach Picnic

Glendale Choral club members are to have a beach picnic Wednesday night at Santa Monica. J. Arthur Myers, director, who is arranging the outing, asks that members and friends meet at 5 o'clock at Harvard High school. Those attending are to take basket lunches. After dinner there will be a big campfire program.

IN NEW LOCATION

J. I. Wernette, 225 South Central avenue, has announced the removal of his offices from his Central avenue residence to room 423, Security building. Wernette's business in real estate, insurance and loans has increased to such an extent that the need for a downtown office became imperative. Wernette's downtown telephone number is Glendale 3691.

Give Me Work Is Cry Of Disabled Veteran

"I'm willing to work, but I'll have to have a job in order to show my willingness."

These were the words of Nelson Bushey, 323 West Windsor road, when he inquired for a job this morning.

Bushey, a disabled veteran of the world war, has himself and his wife to support. He has been out of work for more than four months, although he has a good knowledge of office and clerical work and has served some time as a salesman.

Bushey can be reached at the Windsor road address or by telephone, Glendale 2485-J.

POISONER HUNTED BY DOG LOVERS

Humane Society Has Posted Reward for Arrest and Conviction In Case

The Glendale Humane society being fully assured that some fiend has been busy during the past month, distributing poison on the east side of this city, is prepared to pay a reward of $50 to anyone giving information that will lead to the arrest and conviction of the guilty party.

Many valuable dogs and cats including "Bonnie Laddie," a handsome motion picture collie owned by Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Beuneson, of 1237 E. Maple St., have fallen victims to poison. As the picture dog was never permitted to leave his home premises and died in terrible agony after a few moments walk in the front garden, only one supposition is possible—the poison is being thrown into the yards.

Babes in Danger

This being the case an even more serious problem than the death of the beloved pets has arisen—the danger to the little children toddling about in the infested neighborhood, since a baby is apt to pick up anything his eyes happen to spy and place it in his mouth.

In the interest of the babies and the animals the Glendale Humane society is offering this $50 reward. Anyone having any information to offer should communicate with Mr. Stone, manager of the Humane Shelter, Glendale 1118-J, who will see that the proper authorities are notified.

DOGS OFFERED FREE

Owing to lack of funds to build more kennels, the animal shelter on Ivy street is much overcrowded. For this reason, many dogs have to be despatched to make room for the newcomers. Some of these are beautiful animals and would make desirable pets or watch dogs. To give them one more chance for life, the Glendale Humane society will, until July 15, give them to any persons who will supply them a good home, without requiring any payment outside of the city license fee, which, of course, is not required of people whose homes are outside the city limits. Many of the dogs would be fine watch dogs for ranchers.

HORN HOME IS CENTER OF FESTIVITY

Dinner-Dance Is Given for Parents of James Horn As Housewarming

One of the big social events of the season was the dinner-dance given by Mr. and Mrs. James Horn, 1445 Valley View road, Saturday night in honor of Horn's step-father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Dodson. About 115 guests were present in spite of the fact that a number of Horn's colleagues in the motion picture business had to miss the affair, as it was impossible for them to get in from location. Twenty members of Hal Roach's company, where Horn is a director, were obliged to remain in Yosemite and could not be present.

The occasion, which was not announced beforehand, was the thirtieth anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Dodson. Five years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Horn entertained for Mr. and Mrs. Dodson on the anniversary of their silver wedding.

The whole affair was set in the beautiful gardens of the Horn estate and the setting itself thus provided exquisite decorations. In addition, the grounds were artistically lighted by electric lights. Dancing was held partly in the tennis courts, which are of concrete and had been waxed for the occasion. A buffet dinner was served at the guests.

Also House Warming

Besides being the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Dodson, Saturday night was marked as being the first entertainment held by Mr. and Mrs. Horn in their recently remodeled home, and so also partook of the nature of a housewarming.

Mr. and Mrs. Dodson were presented with a beautiful autograph album by Miss Claire Apgar on behalf of the guests. In the album were inscribed the names of those present, each with an appropriate sentiment. Fancy dances were given by Mrs. Ben Piazza (Frances Cappalini) and by Mr. and Mrs. George Larkin. An eight-piece orchestra, under the direction of George McNeil, furnished the music. Dinner was served at tables under the trees.

Names of Guests

Besides the honor guests and the host and hostess, those present included Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gardner (Louise Dresser), Benny Fineman, Mr. and Mrs. F. Richard Jones, Lew McCarey, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Tryon, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Lewis, Howard M. Mitchell, Mrs. Louise Melford, William G. Forbes, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Piazza, Mr. and Mrs. George Hollister, Miss Doris Hollister, George Hollister, Jr., Miss Evelyn Campbell, Miss Valentine Grant, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Wharton, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. Breezy Reeves Eason, Bob Vignola, Mr. and Mrs. David Butler, Mr. and —About the weather never cleared up a cloudy sky.

—About hard times never paved the way for better times.
—About the hotel service may be a confession that we have nothing at home.
—About anything usually blinds us to our own duty.
—About the sins of youth would fall off considerably if our memories were better.

BUSINESS IN GOVERNMENT

The committee of business experts who formulated the Dawes plan was an innovation in diplomacy. Heretofore, such tasks were performed by politicians and diplomats. But someone advanced the startling opinion that only those highly skilled in finance were competent to deal with a situation in which the economic stability of Europe was involved. And people are beginning to see that where business acumen is required only business men can fill the bill.

The city manager plan for municipalities—which Glendale adopted many years ago—is a step in the right direction. But it remained for the city of Baltimore to carry this principle still further. Thirteen of the leading executives from the biggest corporations of Baltimore gave their services to the city, without any remuneration whatever, for eighteen months and paid their own expenses and the salaries of a highly trained staff, not for political purposes or as "uplift" or "reform," but as sound business policy. In twelve months Baltimore cut her tax rate 39 cents, wiped out a deficit of $1,100,000, and on January 1, 1925, instead of opening her books with a debt, as has been usual for decades, wrote upon the credit side of the ledger a surplus of $2,500,000.

This is said to be the first time in the history of an American city when the taxpayers at their own expense investigated the administration of their city, found out for themselves what was wrong and changed the whole system. A big drive for collection of delinquent taxes, some due for years, brought in more than $4,000,000, which alone cut the tax rate 10 per cent. Waste through duplication in different departments was cut out.

This is what President Coolidge is trying to accomplish in the federal government and it is possible that the time is coming when municipal, state and federal governments will be conducted by the same methods employed by private business firms and corporations. In some states employes are never discharged. Once they get on the payroll they have an income for life. Changing conditions may do away with the necessity for the department or the job, but the salary continues forever. Such a situation would not be tolerated for a moment in private business, but the people are generous where the grafters are concerned, even though they may complain about high taxes.

ADVERTISING EDUCATIONAL

A different trend in advertising is noted in late years. Advertisers have learned that to be of value to them their advertising must be worth something to the reader, also. So the modern advertisement has come to be both interesting and instructive. It not only teaches the consumer how to buy wisely, but it affords a vast amount of information along almost every line. A well-read man recently made the remark that the better class advertisements would afford an education to one who had no other opportunity to learn. A big insurance company takes a page in a national magazine to urge the people to learn to swim, not only because swimming is delightful and healthful recreation, but because the swimmer may some time have an opportunity to save a life.

Today the best thinkers, writers and artists are represented in the advertising columns and people are finding the same interest there as they do in the sections of newspapers and magazines devoted to reading matter.

DIVORCEES POPULAR

The popularity of the divorcee is obvious and has been proved by statistics. An announcement by the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the state of California reveals that 8652 divorcees found husbands during the last year as compared with 6016 "sod" widows who were led to the altar. The divorcees made up 15.5 per cent of the state's marriage total. Likewise divorced men are more popular than widowers, since 7348 divorced men were married, while only 5021 lonesome widowers found mates. Perhaps this seeming popularity of the divorced is due to the fact that the divorced person has the advantage in having a second prospect in the offing before the divorce is secured, while the widow and widower require a little time to recover from the separation and find other mates. At any rate, these figures demonstrate an optimistic spirit and prove the truth of the saying that "hope springs eternal in the human breast."

PLENTY ENCOURAGES EXTRAVAGANCE

It is a queer trait of human nature that when there is an abundance of something man is prone to use more of it than usual. A certain man made the remark that if he bought a box of cigars they vanished in no time, as he caught himself smoking seven or eight a day. Whereas when he bought them one or two at a time he found it much easier to be temperate. Some housewives buy groceries in large quantities to get the benefit of a lower price. Others find it more economical to buy in small quantities, since they are not extravagant when supplies are low, as they are when there are large quantities on hand. This is a rather childish trait, nevertheless there are few of us who do not find it difficult to be economical in the midst of plenty, even though they may not have the means to replenish the stock when it is exhausted.

HELPS ARTISTS AND PRINTERS

With every new invention comes the cry that it is going to replace workers and hurt business generally. How frightened we were that the radio was going to scrap the newspaper and put the concert singer on the shelf. It was only a matter of a year ago that John McCormack was calling upon musicians to refuse to give their services to radio, for by so doing they would be biting off their noses to spite their faces. But we all know how the radio has developed a market for the talents of the musician, even the mediocre performer, and it gives employment to many others as well. A statement from Washington to the effect that $40,000 of the $75,000 appropriated for the International Radio convention to be held in Washington this fall is to be spent for printing is significant as to the relation between the radio and the printing press.

Mastery and Mystery

By DR. FRANK CRANE

I think it was the gifted editor of The Century Magazine, Glenn Frank, that made the pungent observation that what men seek in religion really consists of two things: mastery and mystery.

In the first we want leadership. In the second we want light.

The problem before every man of the most practical kind is mastery.

He seeks to know how to be master of himself, of the tumultuous passions that arise in him, of other people, and of events.

The rule of life is that one must eat or be eaten. One must subject his surroundings to himself or must be subjected to them.

The problem, therefore, is how to attain the mastery.

Anything that will show us how to cure disease, how to overcome our mental limitations, and how to utilize our passions, is a welcome hint in mastery.

It is the one thing everybody is interested in. When you pick up a paper you find many departments, financial, sporting, society, and so forth. There are certain people that are interested in each of these departments, but there are many people who do not read any one. One man, for instance, never will look at the sporting page. Sports do not interest him. Another never looks at the fashion column. And so on.

But there is one problem that is interesting to every person that passes by on the street, whether it be a bishop or a bum, a princess or a prostitute. That problem is how to make the most out of one's life, how to overcome difficulties and how to attain mastery.

It is because religion subtly helps us in this struggle that it is of eternal interest to the human race.

Another source of continual interest is mystery. It is a mystery how we came here. How a man with his memory and hope and imagination and other faculties grows out of an amorphous lump of matter no one can explain.

It is a mystery where a man goes to. The greatest poets and philosophers have faced death and made their speculations, but we of this day know about as much of what takes place after death as those of the Stone Age. Our little island of knowledge will always be but a speck in a vast ocean of mystery.

Strangely enough, this environment of mystery has its effect on the human soul. From it there comes hopes and dreams and impulses that cannot be reckoned with by logic.

We can never rid ourselves of the essential mystery of life.

Religion is founded in this mystery and those who can throw light upon it are invaluable.

Horoscope

While Neptune is in benefic aspect today, according to astrology, Uranus, Venus and Jupiter are both strongly adverse.

It is a much better rule under which to plan new enterprises of development of old projects than it is to put into effect any sort of big venture..

Women appear to be subject to a specially unfavorable direction of the stars and it is well for them to avoid making new acquaintances among men.

This is read as an inauspicious wedding day, since brides may be fickle and bridegrooms may fail to gain wealth.

Theatres are under a peculiar planetary influence, making for the construction of magnificent buildings in which amateur companies perform.

The commercial producers of dramas are entering a period, it is forecast, when out of unfavorable conditions they will develop great successes.

Better plays and better acting will result from the direction of the stars under which great theatrical stars will rise to fame.

The Moon today enters Libra, a fixed, fruitful, feminine sign which is ruled by Mars.

This should be a profitable day for all who deal in any sort of liquid commodity. Drugs, chemicals and oils are subject to the best conditions of trade.

Again the stars appear to foreshadow a renewed fad for hydropathy and the use of water as a panacea for human ills of every sort.

Food comes under a rule, making for much interest in dietary rules and in scientific cooking.

This should be a lucky day for beginning ocean voyages and once more the seers prophesy a great hegira to Europe and also to the Orient.

Women should cease all possible work in the next few weeks, which will not be favorable to nerves. Vacations are recommended.

Persons whose birthdate it is should avoid all speculation in the coming year. Probably there will be opportunity to benefit elderly persons. Domestic affairs may present problems.

Children born on this day will meet the difficulties of life with determination and courage.

Today's Poem

FRIENDSHIP

Fame is a food that dead men eat,
I have no stomach for such meat.
In little light and narrow room,
They eat it in the silent tomb,
With no kind voice of comrade near
To bid the feaster be of cheer.

But friendship is a nobler thing,
Of friendship it is good to sing.
For truly, when a man shall end,
He lives in memory of his friend,
Who doth his better part recall
And of his fault make funeral.

Austin Dobson.

"Josh," said Farmer Wilkins to his son, "I wish, if you don't mind, you'd eat off by yourself instead of with the summer boarders."

"Your society's all right, but your appetite sets a terrible example."

Timely Views

Chairless and rice-stuffed, Japan through the centuries has cheated herself of an extra foot of height enjoyed by the people of other nations. But meat, wheat and dairy products will restore it to the Japanese.

So says Dr. Issa Tanimura of Japan, who has been touring the western wheat belt of the United States.

That is Dr. Tanimura's business—to learn how good wheat is grown and see if the methods cannot be duplicated in the Land of the Rising Sun. He also is interested in putting good cattle, good hogs and good sheep upon some of the farms which never have grown any crop except rice. The time should come, he says, when creameries and cheese factories will vary the skyline of silk factories and tea warehouses in the inland Japanese towns.

Dr. Tanimura, graduate of Yale, lawyer, philanthropist and follower of Confucius, is not much above five feet in height, and he wears a shoe which scores of American women would envy for its slim trimness.

"Generations behind me have squatted on the floor instead of sat on chairs," he said. "That's why I am short and small. Generations of mothers have bound their feet. Generation upon generation has lived upon rice and raw fish.

"Understand, these are fine foods, and Japan could not have subsisted without them. But they are learning it has been too much of one thing.

"The Chinese, for example, have sat on chairs more than we—and they are taller.

"It is a great era that awaits my people. What I hope is that they take advantage of it. They export tons of rice, silk and tea. But they should import tons of wheat, or flour, and shiploads of cattle.

"The day will come when Japan will be exporting motor cars to America. We can build them cheaper than you, so we will import the materials and ship you the finished product.

"And I hope the whole transaction will make for better feeling between America and Japan."

On his farm near Tokio, Dr. Tanimura already has introduced cattle and sheep, and has grown wheat.

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNAIRD

CLARK KINNAIRD

A Good Gentleman discourses at some length on the question of whether this is as good a time to live as the Golden Days of Greece and of Rome. Why worry about such a matter, since all of us must live now?

Carlyle once expressed himself to the effect that there is one thing a man is born to in all epochs. He is born to expend every particle of strength the Almighty has given him, in doing the work he finds he is fit for—to stand it out to the last breath of life, and do his best.

We are called upon to do that; and the reward we get—which we are perfectly sure of if we have merited it—is that we have got the work done, or, at least, that we have tried to do the work.

* * *

The Professional Optimists would have us believe that there is more of a reward than this. But, let us look at it as Carlyle did: "If a man gets meat and clothes, what matters it whether he have $10,000 or $10,000,000, or $500 a year? He can get meat and clothes for that; and he will find very little difference intrinsically, if he is a wise man."

* * *

One of the wisest of men offers this advice: "Don't be ambitious; don't be at all too desirous of success; be loyal and modest." Materially, this may not be the best of advice, but there is a nobler ambition than owning a gold-trimmed limousine, encrusted with diamonds.

In an address to a group of students, Carlyle said:

"I have no doubt that you will have among you people ardently bent to consider life cheap, for the purpose of getting forward in what they are aiming at in life; and you are to consider throughout, much more than is done at present, that health is a thing to be attended to continually—that you are to regard that as the very highest of temporal things to you.

"There is no kind of achievement you could make in the world that is equal to perfect health."

What are nuggets and millions? An American financier said recently, "Alas! why is there no sleep to be sold? Sleep was not in the market at any quotation. And he, with millions and insomnia, died for lack of it.

* * *

Carlyle imagined a perfect man as being one with his intellect a clear, plain geometric mirror, brilliantly sensitive of all objects and impressions around it, and imaging all things in their correct proportions—not twisted up into convex or concave, and distorting everything, so that he cannot see the truth of the matter without endless groping—healthy, clear, and free.

Here, then, is something more to be desired than the things that most men seek.

Who's Who

King George of England has just promoted Sir Arthur Gough Calthrope to the rank of admiral of the fleet, which is the naval equivalent of the dignity of field marshal of the army.

Sir Arthur has a Canadian wife in the person of the daughter of the late Robert Dunsmuir of British Columbia, and he possesses a mastery not only of French, but also of Russian and Turkish, having spent a number of years as naval attache first in Russia during her war with Japan of twenty years ago, and afterward at Constantinople.

He has seen plenty of active service in various parts of the world, participated in the great naval battle of Jutland, and was the first flag officer of the entente powers to reach Constantinople at the end of the war, becoming as such the senior allied commander and high commissioner of the Ottoman capital, with headquarters at the Italian embassy.

He is a younger brother of the late Lord Calthrope and is an uncle therefore and second heir to the present eighth peer of the line, who has an American wife in the person of Mary, oldest daughter of Ogden Hoffman Burrows of Newport, R. I.

The Calthropes hail from Norfolk and Sir James Calthrope, a direct ancestor of the new admiral of the fleet, was knighted by Oliver Cromwell. It was the fifth Lord Calthrope, a granduncle of the present peer, who was so celebrated as a sportsman, winning a number of classic events on the turf, including the Oaks and the St. Leger. He was not only a great sportsman but also a great philanthropist.

WRONG DIRECTION

"Colonel" Summers was at the door of his store on the corner when his "staff" arrived.

"You are an hour late this morning, Sam," he said.

"Yes, sah. I was kicked by a mule on the way, sah."

"That ought not to have detained you an hour, Sam."

"Well, you see, boss, he kicked me de other way."

SEARCHING FOR DEAD AMID RUINS OF CITY

Victims of Tons of Debris; New Quakes Rock Tottering Walls; Acres of Oil Prove Serious Fire Menace

SANTA BARBARA, June 30.—Quake stricken Santa Barbara's death toll mounted today, the total this morning being placed at seventeen. Miss Carter, maid of Mrs. C. R. Perkins, wife of a former Burlington railway official, said to have been killed in the Arlington hotel with her mistress, was reported alive today. She was said to have escaped from the hotel and is now safe, but seriously injured.

Reports that another body had been sighted in the Arlington debris were denied by police. Workers turned their attention to the San Marcos building in an effort to recover the body of Chappo Mastero, chief engineer of the building. He was reported buried under more than 100 tons of rock and mortar in the basement of the collapsed structure.

Three shocks which rocked the city again this morning did no damage of consequence. The first shock at 1:22 a. m. was the most severe of the two and shook the wrecked buildings and tottering walls violently.

While slight tremors continued, corps of workers braved the wrecked area in earthquake stricken Santa Barbara today and recovered two bodies from the debris of the Arlington hotel maging a total of eleven known dead.

Banker's Son Killed

The newly found bodies were those of B. R. Hancock, son of a Los Angeles banker and Mrs. C. R. Perkins, wife of a former vice-president of the C. B. & Q. railway.

Both bodies were found under tons of huge concrete blocks, which had been removed by steam shovels. The bodies were maimed almost beyond recognition.

A detail of 135 police under command of Captain Plummer of Los Angeles arrived shortly before midnight and a little later fifteen fire trucks with their crews sped into Santa Barbara to augment the local fire fighting forces. The Los Angeles firemen are under the command of Battalion Chief Blake.

The fire apparatus was driven from Los Angeles to Santa Barbara in the record breaking time of five hours.

All Roads Blocked

Twelve Los Angeles surgeons headed by City Health Officer Parrish, twenty-two trained nurses and three welfare workers who served coffee through the night comprised the Red Cross hospital unit which reached Santa Barbara by special train yesterday. The doctors and nurses returned when it was found that their services would not be needed as the list of injured was much shorter than was first reported.

All roads to Santa Barbara are blocked. Travelers will not be admitted to the city and the highways are heavily guarded to halt visitors. Thousands of curious motorists were turned back at various points near here today. The weather was extremely sultry and fog came drifting into the city from the ocean. The temperature was warm, however, in spite of cooling sea breezes. It was regarded by many old timers in the city as "typical earthquake" weather and more tremors were feared.

One Spot Isolated

There is one spot in the stricken city of Santa Barbara which no person approached today. Anyone who tries, no matter what his business may be or how urgent will be turned back by armed guards and there will be no mistaking the nature of the orders the guards give.

The spot is a tract of several acres on which are situated the lumber yards of the Ambrose and Union Lumber companies. The tract is just three blocks from the Southern Pacific station.

The reason no one can approach is that the entire area is flooded with oil from a set of Associated Oil Co. tanks which were wrecked by the force of the quake yesterday.

Seventy thousand gallons of gasoline and 35,000 gallons of distillate have formed a great pool in the lumber yards. A spark would start a conflagration which might destroy an already crippled city.

Women Heroines

Santa Barbara's women are brave and tireless. For hours they have served coffee and sandwiches from tents to police, firemen and workers.

Many women worked all night in the coffee booths. Many men have been conscripted as laborers by the city. They are digging in debris on State street and are removing piles of bricks from the streets and are picking up shoes, costly furs, dresses and hats, heaved to the pavements and buried in broken glass, stucco and plaster.

A few bricks fell from the Hotel Carrillo in the 5:50 a. m. quake and adjoining building occupied by a telephone company. In the telephone company building a workman removing furniture and equipment jumped a half story and barely escaped with his life. The rear of the Carlton hotel collapsed in the 1:22 a. m. quake.

Pleasure Jaunt Everything But What Name Implies Is Story In Court

Claire S. Stevenson, music teacher in the Santa Monica public schools, met with all the hard luck in the world when she made a trip to Camp Rincon on Decoration day and on the return trip was arrested by Glendale motorcycle officers. Today she was given a suspended fine of $20 by Police Judge F. H. Lowe when she appeared before him on a charge of speeding. In a statement to the court she told of her experiences:

"I went to Camp Rincon and spent Saturday and Sunday and had a series of mishaps, each worse than the last. On the way over, my brakes, new, but poorly adjusted, had to be set. Shortly, my attention was called to my speedometer chain, which was dragging on the ground. The connecting bolt had fallen out and I could not have it repaired because of the holiday.

More Hard Luck

"On the way into camp, eighteen miles from Azusa, I hit a sharp stone with a new tire and had to change that. In camp I loaned a tube to a man who was in worse circumstances than I. We hiked and enjoyed Sunday very much, but expended all our energy. In the afternoon we left camp at about 4 o'clock, so as to get well on our way before dark. We had two punctures before getting out of the park. Ran out of patches, purchased some from a passerby, then in Glendale ran a tack into another tire. We had to walk a mile and a half for a new tube; then noticed we had bounced our tail light out of commission. So we found a place to buy a new one. Then we lost our way in Glendale."

She speeded here, she admitted, and got tagged. Then she was notified to appear in court and failed to get the notification. Yesterday Bailiff Brewster arrested her and took her from her classes to appear here today.

The United States has admitted 2,000,000 immigrants in the last four years.

ALASKA IS TOPIC OF NOON ADDRESS

Wealth Of U. S. Possession Theme Of Levi Chubbick At Round Table

The mineral resources of Alaska are untouched in large areas because the high wages necessary make production unprofitable, declared Levi Chubbick, former government agent in Alaska, addressing the Round Table at luncheon today in the Egyptian Village cafe. The agricultural possibilities are sufficient to support a much larger population than now. Growth of vegetation is wonderful in the season, but frost is a constant menace.

The sheep industry is hampered by the protection given the brown bear, as this animal does great damage to flocks, he said. Protection is given the bear for the sake of the sportsmen.

"Hot weather in Alaska is not so pleasant an experience as in Glendale. There the sun acts twenty-four hours and the heat is continuous. In addition swarms of mosquitoes and gnats make life miserable. The annual temperature of Sitka is about the same as Washington, D. C.," remarked Chubbick.

Thanks Extended

Dr. L. L. Craven presided at the Round Table luncheon. A special vote of thanks was extended to the J. T. Edwards family for their services at the social last week. Dean Hamilton discussed the program for the general meeting to be held in the near future.

Loren Rowley introduced the speaker of the day, Levi Chubbick, representative of the government in Alaska in a study of that land's agricultural possibilities. Chubbick resides at 1420 Valley View road, Glendale.

The American Legion drive to raise $3800 in Glendale as part of the $400,000 quota for the state in the campaign to raise $5,000,000 as an endowment fund for orphans of disabled veterans, was explained by P. F. Dodson of South Pasadena.

Square Deal Asked

"It wouldn't be a square deal if the orphans of the men who died for their country's ideals, are not raised to enjoy those ideals," said Dodson. "Lack of care will expose them to disease and want. Their fathers were among the best men in the nation. We are glad that such men have left children and we must care for them."

R. D. White, city superintendent of schools, chairman of the drive committee here, spoke briefly on the picture, "Over the Top with the Allies," to be shown as part of the plan to raise money.

COAST LIGHT PLUNGED IN DARKNESS

Tremors Put Mariners' Aid At Point Conception Out Of Commission

SANTA BARBARA, June 30.—Point Conception light, one of the most important aids to mariners on the coast, was darkened by the Santa Barbara temblors, it was said today.

Officers of the U. S. S. Arkansas stated that when that vessel approached the Santa Barbara roadstead in the early morning hours the light was out of commission.

The Arkansas anchored two miles from shore instead of the customary one mile, because of the darkened light, the officers said. At daybreak the ship moved closer to shore and the crew stood by for any duty they would be called upon to render.

Point Conception is just south of Point Honda, where a fleet of naval destroyers was wrecked in September, 1923. It is considered one of the most dangerous points along the coast.

The U. S. S. Arkansas, Captain Frank Lyon commanding, carrying a detail of the Annapolis midshipmen on their annual cruise, landed a detail of twenty-four bluejackets and hospital corpsmen for duty in policing the city. Two companies of sailors will be landed later in the day and placed at the disposal of the civil authorities, it was reported.

Ordered to Action

The Arkansas is one of three battleships carrying the midshipmen on their cruise. It reached Los Angeles harbor last night and on receipt of orders from Secretary of the Navy Wilbur immediately put to sea under forced draft for Santa Barbara. The hospital corpsmen were taken to the Cottage hospital and went on duty at once, relieving civilian nurses who had been on duty since immediately after the big shock of yesterday morning.

Two details of infantrymen stationed at Fort MacArthur will be rushed to Santa Barbara today by special train, according to a report reaching here.

Dentist's Office, Home Are Spared By Tremor

Word was received yesterday afternoon by Dr. E. H. Lyman of Santa Barbara, who is visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Parker, 221 North Central avenue, that his home on Pedregosa avenue, in the eastern section of Santa Barbara and his office in the San Marcos building were not damaged by the earthquake which hit Santa Barbara yesterday morning.

Dr. Lyman, in company with Dr. Kibler of Los Angeles left yesterday afternoon by automobile for Santa Barbara and they are expected to return home today, although no word has been received from them. Dr. and Mrs. Lyman, are guests in the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Parker. The telegram received yesterday afternoon from P. H. Moore, who is caring for the Lyman home while they are away, read:

"Your home O. K. Nothing damaged at all. Town in ruins."

Dr. Stebbins, who has his reception room with Dr. Lyman in the San Marcos building sent the following telegram last night:

"Your house and office seems to be O. K. My office almost caught."

Dr. Lyman's office was on the second floor of the building, directly over the entrance.

Warships Await Orders To Sail For Quake Zone

LOS ANGELES, June 30.—Warships at Los Angeles harbor were mobilized today by navy department orders for the relief of Santa Barbara, if needed. The battleships Utah and New York, with their complement of Annapolis midshipmen on the annual training cruise, received "standby" orders and instructions to be ready to depart on four hours' notice.

The mine sweeper Aldorma left this morning for Santa Barbara with supplies and equipment. The coast guard cutters Tamoroa and Vaughn also left for that city.

En route to Alaska from the Atlantic coast, the transport Vega was intercepted by wireless and put into Los Angeles to receive new instructions ordering the ship to stop at Santa Barbara. She was to leave at noon. Fort MacArthur authorities reported 200 men ready to leave for the north, if needed.

CHIEFS GREET WALES

BULAWAYO, Africa, June 30.—Rhodesian native chieftains, in colorful garb, extended their greeting to the Prince of Wales.

QUAKE STORY RELATED BY COUNTESS

Frightened? Of Course! But She Proves Heroine In Fashionable Hotel

SANTA BARBARA, June 30.—"It was fearful, terrible, fiendish; but it is all past now; for myself I am happy again and am going horseback riding."

This was the version of the Santa Barbara earthquake given today by the Countess Minotto of Chicago, whose son is married to the daughter of Louis F. Swift.

The countess was discovered by International News Service at the Hotel El Mirosol, one of the few hotels that escaped earthquake damage.

"I was asleep in my bed in the hotel when the earthquake shock came," said the countess; "whew! I was so frightened!

"But I told myself I must be brave. I stood up in bed.

"I heard rumblings, then soon it was all over. But the shaking was something that cannot be described."

Countess Heroine

The countess was up early at her hotel, dressed in a brown and gray riding suit. She went for a brief canter on a nearby street.

The countess was one of the heroines of the exclusive El Mirasol. She comforted many of the guests and administered to them immediately after the quake when confusion reigned greatest.

The countess leaves tomorrow for Arizona where her son, Count James Minotto, has a country place.

"Seemed So Peaceful"

Also at the El Mirasol today was Mrs. Henry Safford of the Ritz-Carlton, New York.

Mrs. Safford escaped injury although she said she was thoroughly shaken in her bed during the big quake and frightened by the tremors today.

"Strangely enough nothing in my rooms was disturbed or broken," said Mrs. Safford. "I was shaken and looked out of the window but saw nothing. It all seemed so peaceful after the tremors. Only later did I learn of the damage to the city."

Experts Differ As To Cause of Earthquake

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The center of the earthquake which wrecked Santa Barbara was far out in the Pacific ocean, according to calculations made today by Father Francis Anthony Tondorff, seismologist at Georgetown university.

Father Tondorff said the shocks which were felt in California and registered elsewhere in the United States caused the earth to "dance." The tremors recorded here were said to have been the strongest ever received from such a great distance. It was explained that the vertical motion was responsible for most of the damage.

The horizontal motion here registered around seven millimeters, compared with 140 millimeters for the vertical motion.

Experts Differ

Father Tondorff thought that the shaking of Santa Barbara was a continuation of the Montana quake, while William Bowie, earthquake expert of the coast and geodetic survey, declared that the two shocks were not related. He believes the Santa Barbara quake was the result of a straightening out process in the earth's crust, which is brittle and breaks easily when stretched.

Both Father Tondorff and Bowie said there was no danger of an earthquake in the eastern part of the United States for 100 years.

The federal government, through the army and the navy, and the American Red Cross, have extended offers of relief and assistance to Santa Barbara and the victims of the earthquake. Prompt action in offering aid was ordered by President Coolidge in a telegram from the bedside of his father.

Telegrams From Anxious Folks Pour Into City

SANTA BARBARA, June 30.—More than nine thousand telegrams were received here today from relatives of Santa Barbarans. Although high school boys and Boy Scouts were pressed into service to deliver the messages it will be hours before they can be handled.

Ford Fails To Bid On 200 Old Vessels

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Henry Ford failed to submit a bid today for the 200 old ships offered for sale by the United States Emergency Fleet corporation. The largest bid was by the Boston Iron & Metal Co., which offered $1,370,000 for all of the ships under the understanding that some parts would be salvaged for future sale.

LONDON DIVORCE

LONDON, June 30.—Lady Dunn, formerly Miss Gertrude Price of Quebec, was successful in obtaining her preliminary decree of divorce from Sir James Hemet Dunn. Record of the decree was entered today.

TOUR OF INSPECTION SHOWS WEIRD SCENES

Gil A. Cowan of The Evening News Staff, Flying Over Santa Barbara, Writes of Wreckage and Unknown Heroes

After telephoning observations from airplane to The Glendale Evening News regarding the Santa Barbara earthquake, Cowan and Bob Starkey, his pilot, flew back to the stricken city and got more definite information regarding the destruction of property there.

By GIL A. COWAN
Of The Evening News Staff

Viewed from an airplane—and that is about all the closer sightseers will get to the ruined business section of Santa Barbara for several weeks to come—the results of an earthquake remind the writer of the spatter of a shotgun! Helter-skelter damage and concentrated effect in the center of it all, which happened to be State street, principal business thoroughfare.

From the sky observations are random and a bit confusing. But such was not the case when we landed, speaking for Bob Starkey, the pilot, who crossed through the picket lines with the writer on an inspection tour.

Estimates of Damage

There is one thing apparent in conversing with Santa Barbara local people. They do not realize the damage that has been done. Collectively figured in the cost of actual replacement one cannot believe that $20,000,000 would cover the damage, yet it impressed City Manager Herbert Nunn as being only $5,000,000. One guess is as good as another, but the loss to the Arlington hotel property, alone, in the repair of its shattered walls, ruined furniture and temporary business cessation, would be at least $1,000,000. And surely that isn't one-twentieth of the total.

It appeared from the sky that the Arlington had burned out, but the several fires in the debris of the various buildings were quickly extinguished. Also, the former service men stepped to the front and patrolled the city in a masterful manner, while citizens stoically took up their problems, one by one, from the very first moment.

News Shop in City Park

Publication of the latest information during the day by the process of handbills "kicked off" on a job press at the Santa Barbara Daily News office, while its editorial staff efficiently operated typewriters in the city center park—for which they have some Spanish name which slips memory—was an example of "carrying on." The Morning Press today issued from the office of the newly-equipped Ventura Star office. Mechanical equipment of neither newspaper was damaged, but it is necessary for the town to go without light and power until transmission lines are made safe.

Householders, too, are deprived of water and gas temporarily and it is not altogether enjoyable picnicking amid ruins. And with new temblors at nightfall the populace was a little wary of returning to sleep under their own roofs unless they felt sure every loose brick had already fallen. Chimneys have an unhappy faculty of smashing through the roof and ceilings in no manner pleasant to contemplate.

Interview with McAdoo

The writer personally interviewed William Gibbs McAdoo, United States secretary of the treasury in Woodrow Wilson's war cabinet, as to the method of financing rehabilitation. He explained that a $2,500,000 revolving loan fund, or more if subscribed, would enable repairs and rebuilding of a necessary amount at once. It is pleasing to note that upwards of $1,000,000 has been subscribed within twenty-four hours.

There is no lack of food or medical relief in Santa Barbara. Clothing and furniture are not needed. Neither are sightseers desirable for several weeks to come if the work of clearing the debris and new construction are to be carried on efficiently. And police restrictions will prohibit such interference.

Plenty of Heroes

Unknown and unsung heroes among the Sisters of St. Francis and other hospital employes who rescued the sick from falling buildings; hotel employes who aided guests to escape; telephone operators who stayed in the exchange building which was cracked in twain and only did they leave when the last lines of communication were severed with the outside world; and credit goes to the employe of the Southern California Edison Co., who pulled the switches of the power lines as the wall on which his control board was attached gave way.

Lieut. Harvey L. Kiler of the Naval Reservists who took command of patrol work almost instanter, aiding the meagre forces of Police Chief Lester Desgrandchamps and other officers of the law, was another who saw duty and answered its call. His men set up a radio in the middle of State street and established communications with the Federal radio tug Peacock which was steaming in the vicinity. Today navy and army reinforcements are adding to these lines of communication and protection, while the Red Cross has its representatives at work.

Time Element Saves Lives

Further details of additional destruction and fatalities in the Mission City are in other columns. It is an awesome sight, as pictures you have already seen reveal. The only factor that saved a greater death toll, in the opinion of G. A. Martin, managing editor of The Morning Press, was the fact that the hour was early and almost everyone was home. Had the quake occurred two hours later the San Marcos building would have killed scores in its crash, instead of two, who died within its walls, and it was only one of several structures which literally shattered to stone and dust.

But there is one outstanding fact, an object lesson to builders. The new eight-story Granada theatre block, constructed of steel reinforced concrete, withstood the shock. Yet, had it been located over the "lost fault," uncovered by the quake, it probably would have succumbed to earth's upheaval.

Glendale Council, C. of C. Offer Stricken City Help

The Glendale City Council and Chamber of Commerce stood ready today to send aid to the stricken city of Santa Barbara upon a moment's notice. Following an appeal to the Chamber of Commerce made late yesterday afternoon, directors met and organized to handle relief work out of Glendale if it is found necessary to do so. The City Council this morning voted $1000 to be used in relief activities.

Telephonic messages received at Chamber of Commerce headquarters today from Ed Weiker, in charge of chamber relief work at Ventura, were to the effect that sufficient food and water is now available to care for Santa Barbara's population today and tonight. Engineers who are already on the ground expect to have a temporary water system in operation by nightfall. They are also at work on a temporary electrical system so that the city will not have to remain long in darkness, Weiker reported.

Shipments Withheld

Shipments of bottled water, milk, bread and cooked meats were asked for in the original plea sent out to the Glendale chamber. A later message from Weiker told Secretary Howard L. Wood to withhold all shipments until further notice.

Nine thousand loaves of bread passed through Ventura last night and this morning on the way to relieve hunger in the stricken area, Weiker said. Thirty cars of water have been shipped into Santa Barbara from Ventura, he said. Boy Scouts are distributing water throughout the city.

Students Hold Parade, Clashes Are Averted

SHANGHAI, June 30.—Fifty thousand students and laborers, after obtaining last minute permission from the Chinese authorities, held memorial services here today, following a parade in Chinese territory. Heated anti-foreign speeches were made but no clashes occurred, owing to strict precautions taken by the police and military authorities.

Moscow Thieves Strip Ambassadors Of Japan

LONDON, June 30.—M. Sarto, Japanese ambassador at Moscow, was left without clothes, clad in his shirt only, by thieves who overpowered him in his hotel room, according to dispatches received here.

Aircraft In Germany Under Ban Of Allies

BERLIN, June 30.—Restrictions against German development of aircraft, so stringent in their provisions as to prohibit a flight to the north pole without permission of the allies, are contained in the notes of the ambassadors' council delivered here today. The note besides prohibiting one-seaters of more than sixty horsepower as "military" planes, also prohibits the use of all aircraft without a pilot, this latter inhibition being directed against machines operated by radio.

BURSTING SHELL KILLS

PARIS, June 30.—Three soldiers were killed and three wounded in the explosion of a shell during instruction at the Versailles army post, it was learned today.

VIEW DEBRIS IN PATH OF TREMORS

Scene At Santa Barbara Is Described By Glendale Woman On Tour

Mr. and Mrs. George Prikett and son, Jack, 159 South Columbus avenue, returned to Glendale late last night from Santa Barbara, where they stopped yesterday afternoon to view scenes of the earthquake while en route home from a trip to San Francisco and the bay region. Mrs. Prikett said that State street and other streets in the city were roped off and guarded and that they were only able to drive through the outskirts.

The Prikett family resided at Santa Barbara ten years ago and were well acquainted with the city. They stopped there last week en route north and it was only by chance that they were not there at the time of the earthquake. Plans had been made to stay at the Arlington hotel over Sunday, but they later decided to remain at Carmel-by-the-Sea.

Pianos Do Dance

While in Santa Barbara they visited with William Menenhall, who is in the government forestry service and resides in the northern section of town.

"Mr. Menenhall told us that pianos and chandeliers in the houses did a dance while the first quake was felt," she said. "Chimneys were shaken down in the northern section. Residents had water, but gas and electricity had been turned off."

The Priketts were accompanied from Santa Barbara by the Misses Menenhall, two sisters and a cousin from Santa Maria who had stopped to visit their uncle at Santa Barbara en route to Pasadena. Mrs. Prikett stated that the girls' relatives in Pasadena were overjoyed to see them last night when they arrived.

Some of the people in the residential section were reported to have moved out in the streets. Mrs. Prikett said that at the time they were there she could see no fires and she believed that the way reports got out that there had been fires was due to the fact that all of the people were cooking in the open and that people in aeroplanes saw these fires and believed them to be buildings burning.

Traffic Is Halted

People in the southern section were said to have been deprived of drinking water when a large reservoir broke. Mrs. Prikett stated that as they came through the southern section, near Montecito, they were unable to distinguish whether much damage had been done or not.

All cars were being stopped at Ventura and the roads were filled with automobiles trying to get to Santa Barbara, she said. The Priketts were in San Francisco a week and also visited at San Mateo and San Jose. Mrs. Prikett reported that it was so hot at San Jose Friday that the people were lying prostrate from the heat in the park.

Mrs. A. L. Ferguson Hears Parents Are Safe In Quake

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Ferguson, 525 North Jackson street, were greatly relieved last night to receive a telegram bearing the two words, "All Safe" from Mrs. Ferguson's parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Dickover, of Santa Barbara. Mrs. Ferguson states that she experienced the San Francisco disaster years ago, and last year her brother, Earl J. Dickover, American consul in Kobe, Japan, was in charge of American relief during the disaster in Japan. The brother is now on his way around the world and will land in New York July 16 and come west to visit with his parents in his home city, which he will find rebuilding following the disaster yesterday.

Quake Is Escaped By Santa Barbara Couple

Mrs. H. E. Bartlett of 333 West Broadway, whose sister, Miss Marion A. Patrick, and close friend, Mrs. C. W. Kirk, reside in Santa Barbara, received a telegram last night from them from San Francisco. They had been sojourning at Lake Tahoe, and planned to leave last night for Santa Barbara.

Mrs. R. W. Meeker of 1220 East Colorado street, was still anxious today about cousins living in Santa Barbara. The cousin has a shoe store and the family lives opposite the Cottage hospital. Mrs. Meeker received word from Dr. and Mrs. R. A. Blackburn of Chatsworth, formerly of Glendale, that they were returning from a trip north and planned to stay at the Arlington hotel Sunday night, but changed their plans at the last minute.

Glendale City Council Votes $1000 to Aid Fund

Glendale today appropriated $1000 to be sent to Santa Barbara and used for the purpose of assisting relief in the earthquake district. The City Council, as its first act when it assembled this morning, voted the funds upon the motion of Councilman C. E. Kimlin. There was no discussion.

CITY LAND BUY IS BOOSTED BY TOWER

Purchase of Water-Bearing Property Is Argued by Council Chamber

Editor the Evening News—Will you kindly publish a few lines touching on Glendale city affairs as viewed from the vantage ground of a councilman?

I have always held to the view that a City Council that did not arouse some criticism or awaken some adverse comment must be a sleepy crowd or a set of back numbers. So I am not surprised or even disturbed when a few clouds appear on the horizon.

To make it profitable, however, to all concerned, I would suggest that if we have a choice in the matter, we would prefer reasonable and intelligent criticism.

In the July number of one of the large magazines with a circulation of 2,220,000 is a leading article, entitled "The ten ten marks of an educated man," and the first qualification is: "He keeps his mind open on every question until the evidence is all in." That appeals to me as a good rule for officials, editors and people in general, for there are always two sides to every question.

Not Business-Like

One of the insistent needs of Glendale for several years has been adequate quarters to transact public business in. For, while Glendale has had an unparalleled growth in the past few years, while churches, banks and schools have enlarged their buildings and facilities, no such provision has been made at the city hall, but instead, unsuitable quarters have been hired outside, at a great disadvantage to both employes and the public. It is costing $450 a month for these rentals, and a night watchman. Valuable maps and city documents cannot safely be stored.

The first consideration for a board of wide awake men for a private corporation would be to give this condition immediate consideration. This is what the new council has done. No time wasted. No funds expended on newspaper, election boards, bond expenses or interest charges. Out of funds on hand a two-story annex will be built that will accommodate the police department, including a suitable, sanitary jail—the present jail being neither substantial nor sanitary—and the engineering and other offices, thus providing better facilities for both the employes and the public. I fail to see how the situation could have been handled in a better manner. It was an application of business methods to public affairs.

Provide for Growth

This is likewise true of the additional land just purchased for the public service department of our city, upon the recommendation of our highly efficient and level-headed superintendent of plant and production, Peter Diederich. Here is another example of the wisdom of viewing this very important question of Glendale's water supply from every angle; taking time by the forelock and making provision for our growing needs. When our superintendent assures us that we need more wells in the near future, and that this land by reason of its proximity to the fifteen acres we already own and its known and tested water-bearing qualities, is a good buy for Glendale, we are bound to give it careful consideration, and not let it be sidetracked by minor matters, such as a scandal connected with the purchase of thirty-three acres several years ago, as to what it sold for sometime back, as to who the late owners were.

As business directors of this large business, it is our plain duty to ignore these trifling objections and take the necessary steps to provide Glendale with an abundance of water. If there are any facts or evidence to show that Glendale's best interests have not been safeguarded in these two progressive and forward-looking business transactions, I am not aware of it.

Oppose Sacrifice

I am opposed firstly, lastly and all the time to sacrificing the city's interests to any individual, sub-divider, lodge, club, contractor or corporation.

It is my desire that all city officials, from the council down, shall treat the public at all times in a fair, courteous and business-like manner, with special privileges to none.

Attention is called to a statement from the superintendent of plant and production, Peter Diederich, setting forth the facts and reasons for the purchase of additional water-bearings land, published in today's issue of this paper. Everyone should read it and know the situation.

Respectfully,
W. F. TOWER,
Chairman Public Service Dept.

Letter to Council

Honorable City Council—Confirming my verbal reasons for the desirability of purchasing water bearing lands adjacent to the present holdings of such lands, I herewith hand you a brief statement of facts relative to this subject.

It has been proven by wells installed that the lands adjacent to the Southern Pacific tracks are much larger producers of water than the wells closer to Flower street. These thirteen acres that it is contemplated purchasing are parallel to the Southern Pacific tracks and across the tracks from the present booster pumps and settling basin and five wells. One of the above mentioned five wells now in use is 600 feet deep and has proven a good water bearing well its entire depth. Adjacent to Flower street a well has been drilled to bed rock, which is 436 feet deep, and has not proven to be nearly as good a well for the production of water as the wells which we have been able to drill deeper. Therefore, it is conclusively proven, to my mind, that the thirteen acres adjacent to the Southern Pacific tracks is the most desirable for the development of water.

With wells drilled very closely together we have found that when all of the wells are pumped simultaneously, the total production is not nearly as large proportionately as the total production from one well pumped from the area in that total, multiplied by the number of wells.

More Area Needed

As it will be necessary for us to drill additional wells within the next eighteen months, to provide for the increased consumption of our rapidly growing community, therefore, wells spread over a larger area will not cause a depression of the water in the zone surrounding the wells, and this will give us wells that will not appreciably diminish the volume from the total number of wells when pumped over a long period of time.

Also, all water produced from wells in this area has some iron and manganese contents which has required treatment in order to keep down the objectionable crenothrix growth which we were so seriously affected with in our distribution mains a few years ago. In order to improve this objectionable feature, it has always been considered advisable that at some future time we should acquire land and facilities to overcome this objectionable condition, with larger storage facilities which will allow the settling of fine sediments, and with proper aerating facilities it will improve the quality of our water.

We have not been able to make spur track connections available for the land which we now own, adjoining the airport property, as our Southern Pacific frontage was not sufficient to allow entrance of a spur track from the main line.

Storage Inadequate

The spur track facilities and storage space on land adjoining that have been available to date have proven entirely inadequate for the receiving and storage of poles and with room being needed for the receiving and storage of pipe for water mains, and other heavy construction materials which we receive in car load.

This thirteen (13) acres which we contemplate purchasing has 1154 feet of frontage on the Southern Pacific railway, and we have been given assurance by that company that a spur track connection will be given us on the land which we contemplate purchasing at this time, which when installed from the main line into our property and parallel with the main line of the Southern Pacific Railway Co., will give us at least 2000 feet of spur track frontage in this land which we are now contemplating purchasing. This would also make it possible to extend this spur track to our adjacent land, which has heretofore been inaccessible to spur track frontage.

Anticipating the needs of this rapidly growing community, and considering the three-fold purpose that this land contemplated to be purchased can be put to, viz.: water bearing land, providing storage facilities for car load lot materials, and making our adjacent lands accessible to facilities which will make the same available for more uses than at present, and in view of the fact that this land at the present time is offered to us at $4000 per acre, and considering its desirable location and the three-fold advantage of the same, I would recommend that the same be acquired.

Respectfully submitted,
P. DIEDERICH,
Superintendent of Plant and Production.

Large Number Enroll For Vacation School

Daily Vacation Bible school opened yesterday morning at Glendale Presbyterian church with a total enrolment of 103 children according to the report of Mrs. Keith Brooks, principal. It is expected that a larger number will register for the course of study today. Classes are held from 9 to 12 o'clock each school day of the week and children from the ages of 3 to 13 are eligible to enrol.

The theme for this week is, "The Best Things," the study yesterday being on the best book, which was the Bible. Handiwork, habit and character talks, Bible stories, memory work and health talks are being studied in the various departments. Teachers assisting Mrs. Brooks are Miss Anita Fletcher, junior girls; Miss Gertrude Kern, junior boys; Mrs. T. A. Lewis, primary, and Miss department. All children of the community are invited to join the classes for the four weeks of study.

Music Club Drive Is Showing Big Results

Mrs. Mattison Boyd Jones, president of Glendale Music club, reports continued progress in the drive for patrons for the concert series to be held next fall. She states that the 100 or more persons who have made reservations by phone and have not yet made deposits, must do so at once if they desire tickets held for them. She adds that persons who are solicited by team-members should ask solicitors to show certificates, and warns Glendale people not to pay deposits to strangers.

AERIAL TRIP FROM PARIS TO LONDON

Lon J. Haddock Writes of Flight Between Cities; Visits England

This is the final chapter in the travelogue written for The Glendale Evening News by Lon J. Haddock, prominent Glendale realtor, who has been touring the world. The day after this story was mailed, the Haddock party sailed from Liverpool.

By LON J. HADDOCK
Written for The Evening News

Before another day has elapsed we will be on the high seas en route to America after touring the continent. After the Cunard Co., had sent our trunks ahead from Paris to Liverpool, we flew from Paris to London in three hours.

It was a thrilling experience. Brisbane is right; flying will be the acceptable method of transportation of the immediate future. Not heavy, cumbersome, expensive battleships dragging their weary lengths through the water, at a few slow knots per hour, but heavier-than-air flying craft will decide the wars, yes, and the commerce too, of the future. The day of steam is waning; man has conquered the heavens!

Incidentally, what is the matter with America in this respect? Europe has already worked wonders in flying! The Imperial air union is conducting almost hourly flights from London to the various capitals and centers of Europe and the number of passengers carried runs already into thousands.

America Asleep

Last week a British airman flew, alone, from England to Switzerland and back in less than eight hours, and at less cost per mile than the operation of a Ford. Wake up America! If we are to hold our present lead in World progress.

A motor bus carries you from the Grand Hotel in Paris, out to the airport in the suburbs and, after a hasty customs inspection—a process, by the way, in which the French officials bother you very little—you trail out to where the spreading wings of the airplane bid you welcome.

The planes are made to carry twelve passengers, in individual seats, arranged three on a side, six fore and six aft of the open cockpit in the middle, where the pilot takes his place, his mechanician standing beside him during the entire journey. With a slight tingle of apprehension you take your seat in the death chamber and await results.

Above each seat is a small receptacle containing cotton batting and it is well to plug your ears with this before starting as it reduces the sound of the engines as well as modifying the vibrations.

The pilot taxies once around the field to see that everything is in working order and then as the mechanician calls "all right!" he tilts the wings ever so slightly and immediately the earth begins to drop from under us and the beautiful checkered fields, hills, and forests of France open up like a great panorama around, before, and under us.

Later we cross the Channel, the great ocean liners looking like toy ships beneath us, and soon the shores of England rise out of the mists ahead. Miles ahead a fifty-miles-an-hour train crawls along which in a few minutes we overtake, pass, and leave sadly behind. For one glorious hour we sail over the green fields and threading roadways of England, and then with a wide circling sweep we descend gently to earth at Croydon, where the motor bus awaits to take us into London.

Arrive in London

London! Dingy, dismal, and dirty! Never before has the ugliness of the British capital so impressed me as upon this occasion coming directly there from clean, beautiful Paris.

I was born in England, and in many ways I like and admire the English people. I appreciate their undeviating honesty; their stability; their marvelous toleration; their regard for law and order in all things, their proverbial "good nature," and their thousand and one other virtues that have made them the great race and empire they are, but—Oh! Oh! Oh! Why do they not clean up their cities and let in the fresh air and the sunshine?

The front doorsteps and the brass knockers are "whited" and polished with meticulous care, but the rest of the exterior, yes, and the interior also, are oftentimes reeking of age old soot and filth.

All England Dirty

London, of course, is a polyglot. Like Topsy, it was never "boomed"—it just "growed up." But it isn't in London only that this dirtiness and dinginess obtain; it's all over England!

The pity of it is the splendid English people, instead of resenting it, actually seem to like it. In their persons and in their homes the English people are immaculate, but they honor, worship and adore the Past, Precedent, Custom, Formality and Ceremonial—these to the English are sacred deities. The fact that they are living in the most progressive era the world has ever known doesn't make even a dent on them. They are living, very largely, with their faces to the rear.

I was inveigled, for the second time, into spending three dreary hours going through the Tower of London. Left to myself, I could compass it all in twenty minutes, but was conducted solemnly through the "bloody tower," and through endless rooms containing tons of old armour and spikes and cutlasses and guns.

Junk Collection

It's the greatest collection of junk I have ever seen. This is the shield and sword of Henry 8th! And this the sceptre of King Edward! These are the robes of Queen Victoria, and this the collarlet of Elizabeth. I saw the rough chopping block where royal and lesser heads were chopped off to add to the general hilarity of the times. And then—in hushed whispers my attention was directed to the hallowed chamber in which the "crown jewels" are stacked like hay. Every time a new toy monarch was enthroned untold thousands of dollars went into a new crown to be worn once only and afterwards relegated to this curio scrap-heap.

I thought of the present unemployment in England! Of the thousands of splendid English boys mustered out of service and unable yet—eight years after the war—to get suitable and decent employment. Of the thousands of underfed and underdressed children throughout England, and of what the sale of these bejeweled ornaments—now lying idle—might mean. But what's the use? Sell the crown jewels! The suggestion would rouse the indignation of every man in England. So—I wandered outside. Saw and heard the roll-call of the Tower Guard—the "beefeaters" as they have been called ever since the incident when King John gave to them the privilege of eating all the waste beef they could devour and then taking with them as much as they could carry away on their forks. Every maneuver; every pose; every word of the entire rigmarole is gone through today, as it has been gone through each day for the last several hundred years. And the British like it and—enthuse about it!

At Guildhall

I visited the cheerless "Guildhall," and later watched the "guard-mount," and dismount, at Whitehall and at St. James's Palace. "Big Ben" was still ticking away in his tower on the House of Parliament, and Westminster abbey still cherishes its honored dead. And then, in order to get back into life I dropped into Stoll's theatre and saw Patsy Ruth Miller in "The Girl on the Stairs."

If the young Prince of Wales really wants to do something worth while I offer him this suggestion free gratis, all for nuthin': Let him call for a national "Clean-Up-Week" all over England. Have them get out with their buckets and brooms; their slop-pails and mops, and any other necessary accessories, and wash and scrub away the dust, soot, dirt and other accumulations from the day of good Queen Anne and friend Henry, that now disfigures their public buildings. Take away the centuries-old sable mantle that is hiding the really beautiful lines of the buildings and let England, and the world have opportunity for admiring the artistic genius of the men who designed and built them. What a field for one of our American building-cleaning companies! Imagine what they could do with Whitehall, or Westminster, or St. George's Hall in Liverpool!

Some Modern Things

But—will they do it? Well, you can't tell. Already they have a wonderful subway operating throughout Metropolitan London. And they have a motor bus tram system threading the streets that is the last word in service and efficiency. And last of all—and here the erstwhile Londoners among my readers will gasp with astonishment—they have taken away the fountain and Eros, that stood forever at Piccadilly Circus, and for what?—to make room for an escalator to carry prospective passengers to the subway.

England has worked wonders! Six years ago, when I last visited it, the nation was just emerging from the war. Cripples, newly-made widows, unemployed soldiers were everywhere. Strikes were the order of the day. Coal strikes, railway strikes, even policemen strikes followed each other in rapid succession.

Government Dole

Millions were being kept alive out of the unemployment dole, and a staggering war debt threatened to annihilate the nation. Today there is still much unemployment and much work yet to be done. But—the war debt is surely diminishing; industry and commerce are reviving; the splendid traits that have made Britain and the Britons the most marvelously enduring race the world has ever known, are coming more and more into evidence, and peace and prosperity bid fair to follow shortly upon their splendid efforts.

I'm now going home. After having said which I bid you vale, and farewell!

I have just received a note from the lady with the permanant wave dated Jerusalem, May 29th, in which she says, "I have just learned why they call it the "Red Sea." It's because we've read so much about it!"

Fire Truck Motor Is Wrecked on Fast Run

The heavy motor that has driven ladder truck No. 1 for the Glendale fire department since 1913 was virtually destroyed when a pinion crystalized and broke while the truck was making a fast run to a garage and rubbish fire Sunday.

The entire interior of the motor was damaged. The driver released the clutch when the accident occurred and the truck coasted the remainder of the distance to the blaze.

Because of the danger of the remainder of the old motor and the truck crystalizing through age and use, the City Council tomorrow will be asked to advise as to its repair. The repair cost to the motor will approximate $350, it is said.

STAGE AND SCREEN

VIEWS AND PREVIEWS—NEWS NOTES FROM STUDIOS
Compiled By Members of The Glendale Evening News Staff

New Heights

Percy Marmont and Alma Rubens appear at their best in "A Woman's Faith" now at Glendale theatre.

"A Woman's Faith," Universal-Jewel screen play which will be shown for the last times tonight at the Glendale theatre, is the medium by which two favorites rise to new screen triumphs. Percy Marmont, in a role entirely different from anything he has ever done on the screen before, gives the best piece of work since "If Winter Comes." Alma Rubens again proves that she is one of the really great actresses. It is a great play done in a great manner, and one that is sure to find favor with the most critical movie fan.

This latest Universal-Jewel success is a tremendously dramatic love story of a man and a woman both of whom have drunk deeply of the cup of tragedy and despair. The man, Donovan Steele, found the woman who was to marry him in the arms of his best friend. The girl, Neree Caron, a French-Canadian, is wrongly accused by her uncle, Xavier Caron, of the murder of her brother.

Seek to Hide

The two, Steele and Neree, coming from opposite corners of the North American continent, seek to hide themselves in the woods of Canada—the man, becoming a cynic, to escape mankind; the girl, to elude the police.

There in the woods begins a clash of two powerful wills out of which grows many strong and dramatic scenes. The man doubts everything and has become a scoffer at all that is good in the world. He sneers at the woman's confession of innocense. Though deep in her own misery, she seeks to raise him from the depths of despair.

Strong Type

MILTON SILLS, appearing in 'I Want My Man' at the Cosmo theatre.

Milton Sills, one of the most versatile of screen artists, presents another side of many-faceted dramatic brilliance in his latest First National photodrama, "I Want My Man," which opens toniht at the Cosmo theatre.

Sills' virility, as embodied in his portrayal of the "Sea Hawk," was no less apparent under the reserve with which he handles the dramatic tension of his role in "I Want My Man."

Added attractions will be "The Go Getters" and a Ben Turpin comedy.

POPULAR PLAY OF STAGE ON SCREEN

'Zander' Keeps Humorous Element In Adaptation For Film Purpose

"Zander the Great," the Cosmopolitan production starring Marion Davies, which is distributed by Metro-Goldwyn, was originally a New York stage success, written by Salisbury Field. It proved an extremely popular play which ran for more than a year on Broadway.

The stage play starred Alice Brady, and it was after watching her excellent performance that Marion Davies decided to picturize the drama if she could succeed in getting Frances Marion to adapt it for the screen.

After some difficulty, Miss Marion consented to write the script, with the result that "Zander the Great" as a picture is said to be more humorous than it was as a play.

The picture is being shown for the last time by the Gateway theatre tonight.

Raymond Griffith in "The Night Club" will be the feature picture Wednesday.

Novelty Acts Added To Screen Hit At Bard's

David Belasco's celebrated stage success, "The Boomerang," is being presented by Bard's theatre at Pasadena for the last time tonight, with a brilliant cast including Anita Stewart, Bert Lytell and Donald Keith. The story is bright and snappy with many charming love scenes interspersed with delightful comedy effects. There are Screen Snapshots of movie stars also and the latest Pathe News and an "Our Gang" comedy called "The Sundown Limited."

The novelty presentations include Pierre and Pagie, well-known Parisian dancers, who also work in many great pictures in the studios where dancers are required for revelry scenes. Edith York, an international favorite violin virtuoso, plays several charming numbers. The orchestra under the direction of Leon Strashun features "The Forge In the Forest" with electrical effects.

Icebound Holds Boards At Glendale Playhouse

The Lexington Players who last week presented "Icebound" by Owen Davis, at the Playhouse, corner of Central and Lexington, will give the play again tonight and tomorrow night. Due to the hot weather and the fact that the organization is new in Glendale, the Lexington Players have been forced to play to small though enthusiastic audiences.

Being a little theatre organization the players are working on a non-profit basis, each member of the cast giving his talents and striving to produce community plays of the highest cultural type and yet of interest to everyone. BURBANK VOTING ON ANNEXATION

Both Sides Predict Victory As Residents Go To Polls Today

Residents of Burbank today are voting on the question of annexation, and on two ordinance changes. The first issue on the ballot is in regard to consolidation with Los Angeles, the second question is a proposal to repeal an ordinance which provides that tent shows shall be limited to seven days in the city, and the third is on a proposed ordinance permitting tent shows in the city under regulation of the Board of Trustees.

An unusual heavy vote is predicted in Burbank today as the interest in the matter of annexation has been at a high pitch throughout the campaign. On the eve of the election, both sides predicted victory. The polls opened this morning at 6 o'clock and will close at 7 o'clock tonight.

Italy had 700,000 visitors in 1923.

Two Young Pupils In Joint Musical Recital

Vera Mercer and Charles Sawmill, 8-year-old pupils at the Emerson School of Self Expression, gave a joint recital to a capacity audience last night at the school studios. The program included twenty-three numbers of songs, dances, recitations, pianologues and a sketch entitled "Assisting Uncle Joe." Many beautiful floral offerings were presented to the young artists and the audience showed its delight with the talented children by applauding again and again. The studio was beautifully decorated with gladioli, hydrangeas and pink roses banked among ferns and potted plants.

ILLINOIS WOMAN GUEST

Mrs. Mary Hight, prominent Illinois Republican, was a weekend guest of Mr. and Mrs. Albert D. Pearce of 119 West Lexington drive. Mrs. Hight, who was a delegate to the National Republican convention last year at Cleveland, Ohio, is also a member of the Republican committee of Illinois. During the Harding and Coolidge campaigns she spoke in every state of the union except California and Nevada. She is a writer and lecturer of note.

Release On Property Signed At Consulate

Branding the American consulate at Hamburg, Germany, as "inefficient and lacking in American snap and spirit," a letter and mortgage release to a strip of property on Central avenue was received today by W. J. MacIntyre, right of way man for the city engineer's office, from Anna D. Westing of Oldenburg, Germany.

The release completes the right of way for the widening of Central avenue from Broadway to Lexington drive to a width of ninety-six feet, according to MacIntyre. It is signed by Knowlton V. Hicks, vice-consul of the "American consulate, German Empire, Free and Hanseatic city of Hamburg."

"His office shows no American snap or efficiency," declares Mrs. Westing, who said that she had experienced considerable trouble in having the release attested. "My pride as an American makes me regret such inefficiency. Still with it all, I am convinced that we have the best government and the greatest country in the world."

CITY GETS GEISHA'S YEN

OSAKA, Japan, June 30.—When the will of Kiyoko Furuta, once the most famous geisha in Osaka, who died on April 8, was read, it was found that she had left 10,000 yen to the city of Osaka, to be used for social welfare work. During the days when she reigned as queen of the geisha, Kiyoko amassed a fortune, and the bequest was intended as an expression of gratitude to the city that had made her prosperous. Kiyoko was 49 when she died and had been in ill health for six years.

New Service Badge Is Issued by Uncle Sam

Not content with the profuse wearing of badges, medals, and other metallic decorations, Uncle Sam has entered the field with a new badge, according to word received in Glendale today by ex-service organizations. Under the rules in the latest badge provision, any man who is not already wearing a badge ought to be able to sport one. The new ornament is rather all-inclusive in its provisions, taking in regular soldiers, volunteers, ex-service men and prospective service men.

The latest badge is designated by the war department to be worn with civilian clothes. It will carry the words "National Defense" emblazoned on a field of seven red and white stripes. The striped field will be surmounted by a spread eagle.

The badge will be on sale at all quartermaster-general stores, post exchanges and at commercial concerns. It may be worn by all persons who have served in the United States army, including the regulars, reserves, national guard and other minor branches.

Park Avenue Boosters Report On Year's Work

The Park Avenue Improvement association held its last meeting of the fiscal year Monday night at the Park avenue school house. The organization was formed a year ago and embraces territory north of Los Feliz road to Goodwin avenue, between the Southern Pacific railroad and Los Angeles river.

Among the accomplishments of the organization may be listed the rezoning of the entire district, laying of twelve inch water mains with laterals, installing of fire hydrants, establishment of signals at crossings, sewer connection, more street lights, extension of gas mains opening and paving of new streets, and placing of street signs.

Improvements now under way are the opening of streets north and south to give the district better access to Los Feliz and Glendale boulevards.

At the next meeting, July 13, election of officers will be held and work for the coming year mapped out. Residents in the district are invited to join the association and a membership drive will soon be under way.

HOME IS SOLD

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rhode have sold their home at 1004 Cornell drive for $35,000, and are now in their new home at 1422 North Pacific avenue.

City Gets Two More Postal Sub-Stations

Addition of two postal-substations in Glendale as soon as final approval is received from the postoffice department in Washington, was announced today by Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson.

New stations will be established to serve the Grand View section at 1825 Glenoaks boulevard and southeast Glendale at 1019 East Palmer avenue.

Transfer of sub-station No. 4, now located in Roberts & Echols drug store, to the Ahlman Drug Co., corner of Brand boulevard and Harvard street, was also announced by the postmaster. The transfer will be made July 1.

When new stations are established in the Grand View district and in southeast Glendale a total of seven sub-stations will be in operation in the city. Besides the three stations mentioned there are postal facilities at the H. S. Webb store on North Brand boulevard, at Pacific avenue and Colorado street and in Casa Verdugo at Stocker street and Central avenue.

ARMY TEACHER HERE

Captain and Mrs. C. H. Carlstad of Ft. Benning, Ga., and daughter, Celeste Hale Carlstad, are visiting Mrs. Carlstad's parents, Dr. and Mrs. George L. A. Dale of 1417 South Adams street. Capt. Carlstad is an instructor at Fort Benning in maneuvers of machine guns by the infantry. Mrs. Carlstad, who was Miss Barbara Dale, is well known in Chicago as a singer. She was soloist at Camp Lewis, and is now soloist at Fort Benning, as well as president of the infantry school glee club. She did solo work at San Diego during the 1915 exposition.

D. A. R. WILL ATTEND

Miss Ida D. Myers, regent of General Richard Gridley Chapter, Daughters of American Revolution, states that the members will attend the patriotic service Sunday night at Glendale Presbyterian church.

TENNIS PLAYERS MEET

Mrs. E. McCabe, chairman of the tennis section of the Women's Athletic club, announces that members will meet tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock at Patterson park.

MERCHANTS END BIG EXPOSITION

Final Program Tonight To Be Featured By Award Of Valuable Gifts

The awarding of gifts will be the final feature of the Merchants' exposition during the closing hours of tonight's program.

The exposition is being held at Brand boulevard and Lexington drive and is sponsored by Glendale post, No. 127, American Legion.

The gifts were donated by the merchants who have booths at the exposition, and range from water heaters and incinerators to tailormade suits and four-tube radio sets.

Music will be furnished tonight by Ted Campbell and his Jewel City orchestra. Philip Knox will have his big telescope at the tent again tonight.

The HOUSE Of The ARROW

A SERIAL STORY WRITTEN BY A. E. W. MASON

Protected By The McClure Newspaper Syndicate

She took Ann Upcott by the arm and the two girls went out into the garden. Jim was left alone in the hall—as at that moment he wanted to be. It was very still here now and very silent. The piping of birds, the drone of bees outside the open doors were rather an accompaniment than an interruption of the silence. Jim placed himself where Hanaud had stood at that moment when he had laughed so strangely—half-way between the foot of the stairs where Monsieur Bex and he himself had been standing and the open porch. But Jim could detect nothing whatever to provoke any laughter, any excitement. "That I should have lived all these years and never noticed it before," he had exclaimed. Notice what? There was nothing to notice. A table, a chair or two, a barometer hanging upon the wall on one side and a mirror hanging upon the wall on the other. No, there was nothing. Of course, Jim reflected, there was a strain of the mountebank in Hanaud. The whole of that little scene might have been invented by him maliciously, just to annoy and worry and cause discomfort to Monsieur Bex and himself. Hanaud was very capable of a trick like that! A strain of the mountebank indeed! He had a great deal of the mountebank. More than half of him was probably mountebank. Possibly quite two-thirds!

"Oh, damn the fellow! What in the world did he notice?" cried Jim. "What did he notice from the top of the tower? What did he notice in this hall? Why must he be always noticing something?" and he jammed his hat on in a rage and stalked out of the house.

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN
AT JEAN CLADEL'S

At 9 o'clock that night Jim Frobisher walked past the cashier's desk and into the hall of the Grande Taverne. High above his head the cinematograph machine whirred and clicked and a blade of silver light cut the darkness. At the opposite end of the hall the square screen was flooded with radiance and the pictures melted upon it one into the other.

For a little while Jim could see nothing but that screen. Then the hall swam gradually within his vision. He saw the heads of people like great bullets and a wider central corridor where waitresses with white aprons moved. Jim walked up the corridor and turned off to the left between the tables. When he reached the wall he went forward again towards the top of the hall. On his left the hall fell back, and in the recess were two large cubicles in which billiard tables were placed. Against the wall of the first of these a young man was leaning with his eyes fixed upon the screen. Jim fancied that he recognized Maurice Thevenet, and nodded to him as he passed. A little further on a big man with a soft felt hat was seated alone, with a Bock in front of him—Hanaud. Jim slipped into a seat at his side.

"You?" Hanaud exclaimed in surprise.

"Why not? You told me this is where you would be at this hour," replied Jim, and some note of discouragement in his voice attracted Hanaud's attention.

"I didn't think that those two young ladies would let you go," he said.

"On the contrary," Jim replied with a short laugh. "They didn't want me at all."

He began to say something more, but thought better of it, and called to a waitress.

"Two Bocks, if you please," he ordered, and he offered Hanaud a cigar.

When the Bocks were brought, Hanaud said to him:

"It will be well to pay at once, so that we can slip away when we want."

"We have something to do tonight?" Jim asked.

"Yes."

He said no more until Jim had paid and the waitress had turned the two little saucers on which she had brought the Bocks upside down and had gone away. Then he leaned towards Jim and lowered his voice.

"I am glad that you came here. For I have a hope that we shall get the truth tonight, and you ought to be present when we do get it."

Jim lit his own cigar.

"From whom do you hope to get it?"

"Jean Cladel," Hanaud answered in a whisper. "A little later when all the town is quiet we will pay a visit to the street of Gambetta."

"You think he'll talk?"

Hanaud nodded.

"There is no charge against Cladel in this affair. To make a solution of that poison paste is not an offence. And he has so much against him that he will want to be on our side if he can. Yes, he will talk I have no doubt."

There would be an end of the affair then, tonight. Jim Frobisher was glad with an unutterable gladness. Betty would be free to order her life as she liked, and where she liked, to give to her youth its due scope and range, to forget the terror and horror of these last weeks, as one forgets old things behind locked doors.

"I hope, however," he said earnestly to Hanaud, "and I believe, that you will be found wrong, that if there was a murder Ann Upcott had nothing to do with it. Yes, I believe that." He repeated his assertion as much to convince himself as to persuade Hanaud.

Hanaud touched his elbow.

"Don't raise your voice too much, my friend," he said. "I think there is some one against the wall who is honoring us with his attention."

Jim shook his head.

"It is only Maurice Thevenet," he said.

"Oho?" answered Hanaud in a voice of relief. "Is that all? For a moment I was anxious. It seemed that there was a sentinel standing guard over us." He added in a whisper, "I, too, hope from the bottom of my heart that I may be proved wrong. But what of that arrow head in the pen tray? Eh? Don't forget that!" Then he fell into a muse.

"What happened on that night in the Maison Grenelle?" he said. "Why was that communicating door thrown open? Who was to be stripped to the skin by that violent woman? Who whispered 'That will do now'? Is Ann Upcott speaking the truth, and was there some terrible scene taking place before she entered so unexpectedly the treasure room—some terrible scene which ended in that dreadful whisper? Or is Ann Upcott lying from beginning to end? Ah, my friend, you wrote some questions down upon your memorandum this afternoon. But these are the questions I want answered, and where shall I find the answers?"

Jim had never seen Hanaud so moved. His hands were clenched, and the veins prominent upon his forehead, and though he whispered his voice shook.

"Jean Cladel may help," said Jim.

"Yes, yes, he may tell us something."

They sat through an episode of the film, and saw the lights go up and out again, and then Hanaud looked eagerly at his watch and put it back again into his pocket with a gesture of annoyance.

"Is it still too early?" Jim asked.

"Yes. Cladel has no servant and takes his meals abroad. He has not yet returned home."

A little before 10 o'clock a man strolled in, and seating himself at a table behind Hanaud twice scraped a match upon a matchbox without getting a light. Hanaud, without moving, said quietly to Frobisher:

"He is at home now. In a minute I shall go. Give me five minutes and follow."

Jim nodded.

"Where shall we meet?"

"Walk straight along the Rue de la Liberte, and I will see to that," said Hanaud.

He pulled his packet of cigarettes from his pocket, put one between his lips, and took his time in lighting it. Then he got up, but to his annoyance Maurice Thevenet recognized him and came forward.

"When Monsieur Frobisher wished me good evening and joined you I thought it was you, Monsieur Hanaud. But I had not the presumption to recall myself to your notice."

"Presumption! Monsieur, we are of the same service, only you have the advantage of youth," said Hanaud politely, as he turned.

"But you are going, Monsieur Hanaud?" Thevenet asked in distress. "I am desolated. I have broken into a conversation like a clumsy fellow."

HOW TO SOLVE THE CROSS WORD PUZZLE

The way to solve the Cross Word Puzzle is to fill in the white squares of the diagram with the words which agree with the accompanying definitions. The definitions are numbered to correspond with the numbers on the diagram.

Any word defined in the text under "HORIZONTAL" will begin at its number, shown on the diagram, and will extend all the way across to the first black space to the right of that number. That is, the word must begin in the square that contains its identifying number, and extend as far as the white squares continue uninterruptedly.

Any word defined under "VERTICAL" will also begin in the white space that contains its number, but will extend downward as far as the white spaces remain uninterruptedly.

UNCLE WIGGILY

UNCLE WIGGILY'S ROMAN CANDLES

"Where are you going now, my dear?" asked Uncle Wiggily's new wife of him one morning, as she saw him hopping down the back stoop on his tiptoes so he would make no noise.

"Hush! Not so loud!" the bunny gentleman whispered, holding one paw over his lips. "I don't want any of our forty-'leven little bunnies to hear, but I am going to the store to get some Roman candles for Fourth of July, which is on Saturday. We are going to have a grand celebration, but I want to keep it secret about getting the candles ahead of time."

"Well, whatever you do, don't hide them under the front stoop, as you did the skyrocket!" advised Mrs. Longears with a laugh.

"No indeed!" chuckled the bunny gentleman. He hadn't forgotten how some of the bunny children found the rocket and set it off. Though it was a good thing they did, for the rocket swooped through a bush where the Fuzzy Fox was hiding and frightened him away.

"So it is Roman candles you want this time, is it?" asked the monkey doodle gentleman when Uncle Wiggily hopped into his store. "Well, here are fine ones. Do you know how to shoot them,"

"I guess so. You just light them, the same as a skyrocket, don't you" Mr. Longears inquired.

"Not exactly," chattered the monkey doodle gentleman. "You can hold a Roman candle in your hand after you light the fuse, and you wiggle it around like a corkscrew and a lot of balls of colored fire shoot out, like bullets from a gun. So don't aim them at anybody. And don't let any of the little bunnies shoot the Roman candles—do it yourself."

Uncle Wiggily promised that he would do this, and be very careful, and then the monkey doodle gentleman gave him some of the queer fireworks called Roman candles, though, as the old lady said, she thought of the Romans ever used them for going to bed by they must have jumped in between the sheets very quickly.

"It will be a jolly Fourth of July at our bungalow," murmured Uncle Wiggily to himself as he hopped along the path toward home. It was later than he thought, for he had stopped to talk a long time with the monkey doodle gentleman, and now it was getting dark. Uncle Wiggily was thinking of lighting one of the Roman candles to see if he was on the right path, when, all of a sudden, out of the roadside bushes jumped the Bob Cat and the Wolf.

"Grab him!" howled the Bob Cat.

"I have him!" snarled the Wolf, and before Uncle Wiggily could hop out of the way the two bad chaps had caught him.

"Please let me go, gentlemen," begged the bunny politely, "I am only a poor rabbit, and I have very little money."

"What have you in that bundle?" growled the Bob Cat, pointing to the Roman candles.

"Those are something with which to amuse my little rabbits on Fourth of July," answered Uncle Wiggily. "Really, it isn't anything good for you to eat!"

"We're going to eat your ears! That's what we're going to eat!" snapped the Wolf. But, just the same, there may be something good in that bundle. Open it until we take a look. Though it's so dark now, I don't see how we can tell what it is!"

And then Uncle Wiggily had a bright idea there in the darkness. He remembered what the monkey had said about the fireworks shooting out bullets of fire.

"It is very, very dark!" complained the Bob Cat. "Even I with my sharp eyes, can hardly see anything."

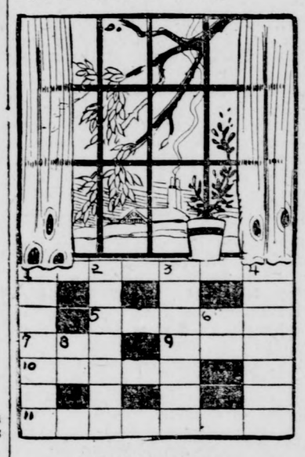
"Wait, and I'll light a candle for you," offered Uncle Wiggily, not saying what kind of a candle it was. Quickly he lighted one of the Roman ones, and as it began to splutter and hiss he aimed it at the Fox and Bob Cat. Out shot a lot of balls of colored fire. Straight at the bad chaps Uncle Wiggily aimed them and when the Fox and Bob Cat saw the fiery bullets coming toward them they howled, tucked their tails between their legs and away they ran, leaving the bunny gentleman safe.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Mr. Longears as he hopped home with all but one of the Roman candles. "Fourth of July is very useful, even if it only comes once a year." And if the loaf of bread doesn't try to change itself into a chocolate cake by turning somersaults with the egg beater, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's red fire.

CROSS WORD PUZZLE FOR YOUNGSTERS

HOW TO SOLVE PUZZLE

The words start in the numbered squares and run either across or down. Only one letter is placed in each white square. If the proper words are found each combination of letters in the white squares will form words. The key to the puzzle—the first word—is given in the drawing. Below are keys to the other words.



Running Across

Word 5. The skin of the head.
Word 7. A small bed.
Word 9. Used in baseball.
Word 10. Smell, odor.
Word 11. To work, to bring about.

Running Down

Word 1. A large city in Illinois.
Word 2. To bring back to or put back into.
Word 3. A southern state.
Word 4. The Roman god of the sea.
Word 6. Southern state. Abbreviated.
Word 8. A conjunction.

LOS ANGELES, June 30.—The City Council has instructed the city attorney to prepare an ordinance for the widening and improving of San Fernando road between Dayton avenue and the Glendale city limits, to make it a 100-foot boulevard.

Deputy District Attorney Howell Richardson returns from Tulare county tomorrow with the body of his brother, John L. Richardson, prominent attorney, who was killed in a landslide in the Kern river country Saturday. Mrs. Margaret de Silva also was killed.

The Los Angeles aqueduct has been temporarily clogged by a landslide, in the Little Lake section of Owens valley, but Fairmont reservoir has a reserve sufficient for all needs until the debris is removed, it is stated.

Forest service officials today prepared to send recruits to fight fire in Buckhorn flats which got beyond control of a crew of fifty late yesterday. The blaze on Mount Waterman started last Friday.

Mesidents of Mulholland drive, vicinity of San Fernando valley will be called upon July 30 to vote $1,000,000 for streets, curbs and sewers, the City Council has decided.

Harry J. Tremain, former owner of the Angelus hotel, has purchased the Stowell, it was reported today.

Women's Tour Follows Pacific Coast Route

Mrs. F. A. Field and daughter, Miss Bessie Field, of 538 North Louise street, have just returned from an enjoyable motor trip south. Of the trip Mrs. Field says, "We followed the new coast route from Long Beach through Balboa, Laguna, Arch Beach and on to Capistrano beach. The views from the cliffs of the many coves and sharp rocky points are most beautiful. No wonder artists build their homes along this stretch.

"The ride from San Juan to San Diego is always a delight. Sunset Cliffs just south of Pacific Beach are often missed by tourists, but they deserve a visit. The deep coves and natural bridges and crude promontories are quite wonderful. Our return trip was by Lake Hodges and Escondido and then back to the coast from Carlsbad."

Mrs. Clara Curtis of Los Angeles, is to be a guest of Mrs. Field for several days this week.

Actor, Glendale Citizen, Signs Stage Contract

Harry J. Glazier of 204 West Windsor road, who was connected with the Dobinson Players, during their run in Glendale, has just signed a contract for forty weeks' work with the Lightning Dramatic Co., which will open July 20 for six weeks' work in San Francisco, and later tour the northwest. Glazier will be stage manager as well as an understudy of the juvenile lead. The season will close with a run in Los Angeles in April.

Premier Gives Answer To Attack On Tories

LONDON, June 30.—Premier Baldwin, replying in the House of Commons to an attack by former Prime Minister Ramsay Macdonald on the Tory government's inability to relieve unemployment, attributed increased unemployment to lack of emigration which averaged 200,000 yearly before the war in comparison to 130,000 at the present time. Baldwin also cited general increase in population of Great Britain as a contributing factor, adding that unemployment is confined chiefly to coal, iron, steel, engineering and ship building trades.

LEAVE FOR SUMMER

Mrs. and Mrs. George K. Pratt, 356 Myrtle avenue, will leave tonight for Portland, where they will spend a month. After the Portland visit, Mr. and Mrs. Pratt will make a month's trip in the east, visiting Minneapolis and Chicago and points of interest in Wisconsin and Iowa.

Woman's Page

Heart and Home — Health and Happiness

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

"Dr. Lulu Hunt Peters, M. D.: M. D. means My Darling, for I love you! Five months ago I wrote for your booklet on reducing. I am 52 years old, five feet, five inches tall, and weighed at that time 200 pounds. Today I weigh 160. My double chin is gone and I feel 40 years younger as well as 40 pounds lighter.

"I took the three day liquid diet to start on and now, each Sunday, I go on a milk diet of 500 to 600 calories, and give my tummy a little weekly shrink. I do all my housework and do lots of walking and exercise by kicking and stooping, twisting of the arms backward and forward, etc. I have always lived on a farm, worked hard and ate heartily. Today I am alone, so I made up a raw salad of several fruits and vegetables and will eat nothing but that all day.

"Now by problem: I am reduced all over, but my face shows it most of all. My family is raving; they want me to stop. They say I look older and that they have lost their pretty Mamma.

"I have five women friends who are reducing the same way with me and we sure have some fun. We all report doing fine Shall I go down to normal and look older? Or shall I quit where I am?—Mrs. A. D."

You have to learn to discountenance what your family says about your looking older, Mrs. A. D., and even though you do look older, the fact that you feel 40 years younger as well as 40 pounds lighter, is of more value to you and to them. Your people are used to a fat face and they evidently like it.

Use a little good grade rouge and powder of shades that are becoming. (Use them very judiciously of course). When you get on your maintenance diet and are not reducing, you will cease looking drawn and older.

Each time you wash your face, pour a few drops of glycerine into the palm of your hand and rub it over your face while it is still wet; then rub it off. Pat your face five or ten minutes a day; stretch your neck up and down, backwards and forwards, and to the sides, but especially backwards, blowing at the same time, with the lips held loosely, not puckered. Do this at least 100 times a day, in relays of ten. Give your face ice water rubs once or twice a day, also. Use a good grade of face cream at night.

For five feet, five inches, your normal weight should be around 140. I advise you to get down to this weight. (You can plump up five or six pounds if your face really looks too thin.) If you don't get down to normal you have to be so much more careful in your diet than you do if you get to normal. Twenty pounds excess is too much.

I am glad you interested your friends. It's lots more fun when you have a club. Thanks for the "M. D.," and your good report.

Position of the Uterus

Miss H.—Yes, there are displacements of the womb that can be straightened out without operations.

The upper part of the uterus (womb) is suspended by ligaments so that it has a free movement backwards and forwards. Normally it should incline forward so that the abdominal pressure is exerted on the back of it, thus helping to hold it in position.

Correct posture has a great deal to do with the direction of the abdominal pressure and the right position of the uterus, so exercises of the trunk and the spine to insure proper posture, will help keep the uterus in the normal forward position. Walking on all fours, like an animal, every day for a few minutes, is a good practice.

Many women have the backward displacement with apparently no symptoms, while others with a slight displacement may have no symptoms. Unless you suffer from the displacement there is no indication of the necessity for an operation. There are other procedures that your physician will tell you about that can be adopted.

My Dear Followers:—When sending for material which we offer you please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible; if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s.a.s.e. if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

Miss C. K.: "I would appreciate a recipe for pie crust and also a Butterscotch Pie filling."

Answer: Add one-half teaspoon of salt to one cup of pastry flour then, with the fingers, rub in three tablespoons of lard. Moisten with six tablespoons of cold water, turn out onto a floured board, dust with a little more flour and roll out gently to about one-half inch in thickness. Dot this sheet with two extra tablespoons of lard broken in small bits, and fold one-half of the sheet over the other, pinching edges together to enclose the air. Again roll out, fold over again, and cut the mass into equal halves. One-half makes one crust—either an upper or a lower. (This recipe may be used to make the pastry part of the Berry Cream Pie which my menu for today called for yesterday.) It will make two Butterscotch Pies as only a lower crust will be needed. When you roll these two pastry halves out, separately, try to make them as nearly circular in shape as possible to fit the pie pan. Stick with a fork and bake, empty (for a Butterscotch Pie) for fifteen minutes in a hot oven. Then fill with the following:

Butterscotch Filling: Put two tablespoons of granulated sugar into a hot frying pan over medium heat and let it melt ("carmelize" it). When it is all melted, add one and one-half cups of boiling water; this will make it sizzle and lump, but keep stirring it till the lumps melt. Then also add one and one-half cups of medium brown sugar. Thicken this mixture with three tablespoons of cornstarch powder which you have previously mixed to a paste with a little cold water. Add a pinch of salt, two tablespoons of butter, and pour the mixture onto three well-beaten egg-yolks. Now turn it into the baked lower crust in the pie pan, spread over it the stiffly whipped whites of two eggs sweetened with two tablespoons of granulated sugar, and slip the pie into a slow oven for ten minutes, during which time the meringue will brown. Serve cold. (Note: To make ordinary bread flour like pastry flour add two level tablespoons of dry cornstarch powder to each cup of the flour).

Tomorrow—The Delicious Sherbert

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use YOUR full name, street number, and the name of your city and state.—The Editor.

Omar Shrine

Omar Shrine, White Shrine of Jerusalem, joined Saturday night in the annual picnic outing of Glen Eyrie Chapter, O. E. S., in Eagle Rock park. The Shrine members attended the dinner and dance at the park, holding a short business session in the Masonic temple. Mrs. Libbie Cutting, acting worthy high priestess, states that there will be but one Shrine meeting night during the rest of the summer. Meetings will be July 11 and August 8.

Chats On Beauty

ANSWERED LETTERS

B. L.—Massage under the chin by using a circular motion with the tips of the fingers and thumb on which there is some nourishing cream or olive oil. After these movements have caused the blood to circulate freely and the skin has absorbed as much oil as it will, conclude the treatment by rubbing the front of the throat, chin, and lower part of the cheeks with a small piece of ice. Three treatments a week will not be too often in order to show results.

If your skin is inclined to be loose you should use an astringent on the face about once each week, in addition to the daily general good care.

Miss G. R.—The following are some measurements based upon an average taken from a great many college girls: Height, five feet, three inches: weight, 118 pounds; chest, normal 29 inches, expanded, 32 inches; waist 24 inches; hips, 35 inches.

X. Y. Z.—A woman of 47 years of age usually looks much younger by having some grey hair to soften her features, but you may color the hair with henna or have it dyed.

Your scalp probably needs an occasional oil massage and if you do this and also give the hair a daily brushing it will become glossy. Your scalp must be healthy or you would not have a heavy head of hair.

Mrs. W. R. T.—Your own condition of health should govern the amount and kind of excercise you should take during the pregnancy period. There also should be no reason why you should not take all the exercise that you enjoy; in fact, live the same normal life if your strength permits. Rest whenever you get tired, but never pamper yourself, for pampering only leads to weakness and often depression.

Sally Lou:—If you can take a general reduction it would be better than trying to reduce the bust as there is so little result that you can obtain from any effort of this kind.

M. E. R.—As a blush comes from self-consciousness, you can control yourself. One way is to take a deep breath and hold it for an instant while you count three, and then another and another. When you have ceased to concentrate on your own feelings you will also have filled your system with an extra amount of oxygen which will keep your blood evenly circulated so that it cannot back up in your face and head—which is really what happens when you blush.

Tomorrow—Shingled Heads.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

FIREMEN WALLOP RADIOS, 15 TO 10

Smoke Eaters Have Slugging Clothes On And Circle Bases In High

By A. S. HALL
Of The Evening News Staff.

The Firemen had their slugging clothes on yesterday and pounded out a 15-to-10 victory over the Radios. The ladder climbers got next to Hall, Watts and Wolfe for a collection of ten hits, while the broadcasting boys gathered seven hits off Eves and Aiman.

The lineup of the Firemen looks like a list of the personnel at the various stations. Constant switching was the order of the day, and if a man didn't get a hit each time he was at bat, he was yanked and some one else sent in his place.

The Firemen's heaviest inning was the second, when they chased eight runs over the platter, circling bases like they were going to a grass fire. The Radios got four runs in the first, the same amount in the fifth, and a couple in between.

The game yesterday was the opening battle of the second round. This afternoon the Calla Lily and Huli Trucks teams take the field. Yesterday's event:

JOHN B. FOSTER'S VIEWS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, June 30.—Six weeks ago the Detroit Tigers were last in the American league race. Since then they have gained 200 percentage points. If they should gain another 200 points in the next six weeks, they would become contenders for the pennant with Washington and Philadelphia.

If the immortal Tyrus really has his team under way now and it certainly appears that he has, the championship race will have all of those attributes of war that were predicted for it before the season began.

Chicago is in the hunt too and if the Detroits can give the White Sox some help in cracking the skulls of the two leaders, there may be a merry battle right down to the finish with two eastern and two western clubs fighting for the honors.

Ty's team has made its worst showing against the Athletics from whom they have won only two games, and yet if it can continue to skip along as it is skipping now, the Philadelphias are going to lose quite a few to Detroit.

Detroit's best pitcher has won seven games and lost three. Perhaps Ty's pitchers are just getting to come around. Leonard, who was a veteran and had retired, has staged a fine comeback since he is leading the Detroit pitchers. There are kids on the team who should be ashamed to let an old fellow like Leonard get ahead of them and if the kids really get started on a pitching toot of their own, the Tigers will be knocking loudly to get into first place.

If Detroit can gain thirty points a week for eight weeks the Athletics and Washingtons will hear their own teeth rattle.

The Yanks too are playing some better ball and that too may have its effect on the race, especially if they trim the teams which most particularly can make life a misery for the Georgia peach.

The American league has not succeeded in pulling its leaders so close to the general body of the league as the National league has done. That is one of the developments of this season which was not expected as everybody figured the National league as more or less a kite with a long tail, New York, being the head, and the American league as something closer than Susan Jane, very sleepy, returning from the picnic with her head on Bill's shoulder.

Walker Ready For Greb

Thursday, the welterweight champion, MICKEY WALKER, will endeavor to knock the world's middleweight crown from the manly brow of Harry Greb. The bout was originally scheduled for June 19, but was postponed on account of Mickey's sore toe.

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Written for The Evening News.

Mickey Walker, ambitious welterweight champion, was preparing to wrest the world's middleweight championship from Harry Windmill Greb, June 19, when the former forgot his childhood teachings and forced postponement of the bout until July 2.

From the time he started to toddle, Mickey was told to "mind where you're walking—watch your step." But the other day he got to ambling around the ring, stubbed his toe and found himself with a bum toenail.

But the slight postponement hasn't quieted interest in the battle, however.

Such battles always arouse interest. One of the greatest fighters the game has ever produced won much of his fame by his eagerness to take on and success in dealing with gentlemen weighing many pounds more than himself.

That man was Joe Wolcott, the great negro, labeled the "Giant Killer" because of his ability to take big men and whittle them down to his size.

Knocked Out Choynski

Wolcott was a welterweight and could make the weight then in vogue, 142 pounds. But one of his greatest victories was over Joe Choynski, light heavyweight, and one of the smartest boxers in the game. Joe met Choynski in 1900, before winning the welter crown from Rube Ferns. Joe planned his battle with cunning and carried out his line of attack with consummate skill. Realizing that Choynski's height—he was ten inches taller—would handicap him (Wolcott) in reaching Choynski's head through his guard, the negro spent seven rounds punching Choynski in the stomach. The punishment finally caused Chopnski to lower his hands to protect his body. Then Wolcott leaped like a springboard diver and caught Choynski flush on the jaw, dropping him for the full count.

Choynski, before that battle, had fought a twenty-round draw with Jim Jeffries, a short draw with Bob Fitzsimmons and had licked a dozen heavies of various ability.

Fights 'Kangaroo'

Wolcott, earlier in his career, took on an Australian named Mick Dunn, a middleweight in rating, a foot taller than Wolcott and some twenty pounds heavier. Wolcott took considerable punishment from Dunn for seven rounds. The fans decided that he had taken on too much in meeting the visiting boxer. Then Wolcott let loose. He drove one to Dunn's tummy that made him grunt and grab himself. Then came a deadly right, flush on Dunn's jaw. Wolcott was inches off the floor when he struck. Dunn stayed down.

George Gardner, later rated as light heavyweight champion and one of the best big men of his day, lost a twenty-round decision to Wolcott.

Dan Creedon, another Australian and a middleweight, tried four times to lick Wolcott and failed every time.

There was another negro, Cole, a welterweight, who took on Joe Goddard a generation ago, when Goddard boasted 220 pounds, and felled the giant.

Fails Against Carpentier

Ted Lewis, Britisher, and once welterweight champion, is one of the men who stepped out of his class to take on big game. Lewis failed to achieve much, however. Lewis met Georges Carpentier, a normal light heavy, in Europe, but was knocked out.

Walker doesn't give away the weight these boys did. He doesn't have to in meeting Greb. The latter must scale 160 for Walker and the welter weighs around 148 in fighting trim.

There is one thing to be said in Walker's behalf, however. He is the first man to go out of his class to meet the windmill. If he licks the weird gentleman from Pittsburgh, Walker can feel right at home any time he visits Holland.

HENNESSEY OUT

WIMBLEDON, England, June 30.—Henri Cochet, French tennis star, conquered John Hennessey of Indianapolis in the round before the semi-final of the all-comers singles here today. The scores were 7-9, 4-6, 6-1, 6-3, 6-0.

BASEBALL

A home town contest is being held at Washington park this afternoon between the Angels and Tigers, the Vernon team occupying the cellar for the season, but not at all averse to showing the tribe what Los Angeles doesn't know about baseball.

BURBANK NEWS

BURBANK, June 30.—Burbank's sewer system has been damaged to a considerable extent by vandals, who punctured sixteen of the twenty-two flush tanks with chisels, removed wire screens, bending and breaking apparatus and clogging them with sticks, according to City Engineer Rose. Special watch has been placed over the flush tanks by the board of trustees.

W. A. Blanchard, C. B. Fitzsimmons, J. D. Radcliff, I. M. Rothenburg and A. C. Fillbach are new members of the Burbank Chamber of Commerce board of directors. They replace directors who have resigned during the past few months.

Business frontage at 117 and 119 San Fernando road was leased for a period of ninety-nine years to David S. Preston for a total consideration of $300,000. The property is owned by Charles E. Hams. The lease stipulates that Preston must erect a business block, two stories or more in height, within ten years.

Larry Wood, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, is now in the east negotiating for large funds in the interest of the University of International Relations which it is planned to establish in Burbank. Wood is personally representing Dr. von KleinSmid president of the University of Southern California.

TOUR IS PLANNED

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Jernegan, 1109 San Rafael avenue, Casa Verdugo, are planning to leave soon for an eastern tour. Yellowstone National park and various parts of Iowa will be part of their itinerary.

SELF DEFENSE

Q.—Please tell me if boxing could be used as a means of self-protection for a woman, and where one could get instructions in that art.

A.—Boxing can be used as an art of self defense if you have weight and strength to go with it, but as a general rule women are too light to protect themselves with their fists and only aggravate the man who is attacking them.

Any man who attacks a woman or girl tries to choke or shut off the girl's wind. If a woman can scream her chances of escape are greater than if she could not. A man fears that her screams will bring help. It is very hard to knock a man out, if you have weight and strength, as you must hit him very nearly on the point of the chin, a target that is very hard to hit when scuffling.

The best system of self protection is the Japanese science of jiu jitsu.

It is very discouraging to any one who attacks a jiu jitsu expert or any one who has a slight knowledge of it.

You can always scream as a man cannot shut off your wind. There are several ways to break any hold that a man may use. You can make him let go any hold he may have on you. You can break his neck very easily or choke him into unconsciousness with the same trick.

There are five easy ways to knock him out from close range with the palm of the hand, the knee, elbow, heel of the shoe and the back of your head.

A girl weighing 110 pounds can successfully protect herself against the strongest man. Girls even lighter can protect themselves against the attacks of the average man, and if they train properly and energetically they can discourage any man who dares attack them. It is a system of self-defense that, when once learned, is never forgotten.

As this column cannot be used for advertising purposes, a self-addressed envelope will bring information regarding the address of instructors in boxing and jiu jitsu.

AT VERDUGO CITY

VERDUGO CITY, June 30.—On July 2 delegates from the Glendale, Burbank, Casa Verdugo, La Crescenta, Montrose and Verdugo City chambers of commerce will be entertained by the three local organizations at dinner in the Fowler auditorium. At a meeting yesterday in the auditorium of the three valley units, plans for the entertainment of the visitors were completed. Mrs. Agnes E. Wooley of Verdugo City was appointed chairman of the women's committee to prepare the dinner.

A. W. Clark, president of the Montrose Chamber of Commerce, was appointed chairman of the men's committee at the business meeting held at the same time. Dr. Brougher of Verdugo City held the chair as secretary. Invitations will go to Sunland, Valley Centre and Tujunga to send five delegates from each civic body. The dinner will be limited to delegates from the chambers. Others will be admitted at 8:30 o'clock to attend the program. Dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock. The meeting is to form a joint association.

Mr. and Mrs. MacCandless of East Manhattan street are the parents of a little daughter. Mother and child are doing well.

Mrs. A. F. Hopkins, chairman of the valley division of the Hollywood Bowl ticket drive, announces tickets may be had at the Verdugo City drug store.

HARD ON KEARNS

NEW YORK, June 30.—Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, the heavyweight champion, was denied the right to second Mickey Walker in his fight with Harry Greb at the Polo grounds Thursday night in a ruling made today by the New York State Athletic commission. He was even forbidden to enter the grounds in an official capacity.

Local Golfer In Finals at Griffith Park

Harold Thompson, youthful golfer of Oakmont Country club, will battle with Earl Neitzel, representing the Hollywood Country club, next Sunday morning in the 36-hold final match of the Warren G. Harding Memorial course in Griffith park for the city championship. Thompson went into the finals Sunday by defeating Lee Pendergrass, of the Wilshire Country club, 9 up and 7 to play in the 36-hole match. Neitzel defeated Fuller Thompson, former New York National league player, 10 up and 9 to go.

Ruth Has X-Ray Taken Of His Swollen Ankle

BOSTON, June 30.—Between acts in his role of realtor, in an attempt to sell his South Sudbury farm, Babe Ruth, the home run king, hobbled over to the office of an X-ray specialist today to have a picture taken of his lame right ankle. Ruth said he was convinced he was suffering from a broken bone and decided to have the X-ray picture taken before going to New York.

"I may be laid up for a while, but I won't be out of baseball for the rest of the season, I hope," said Ruth.

Ruth's chief concern was not his swollen ankle, but his South Sudbury farm. A party of the second part has been obtained and Ruth has about clinched the real estate deal.

All Is Hotsy Totsy At Orpheum With Sophie

Everything is hotsy totsy down at the Orpheum this week, according to Sophie Tucker, and she ought to know. She is back again with a "bomb-proof" act, which outdoes any of her previous efforts. Sophie and her Hollywood film scene made a big hit. In her clown suit she is the whole of the "big show." She is aided by Jack Carroll and Ted Shapiro at the twin pianos, while Master Spires is again introduced in her act, playing the violin beautifully.

Can a man kiss four girls in one evening without asking? Well, some can and some can't, but for those who want to know how, William Gaxton in a novel one-act play shows everyone how it is done.

Wells, Virginia and West, billed as two sailors and a girl, made the house stand up and take notice with their clever dancing. Pert Kelton is very clever and puts on a vaudeville show to the hilarious amusement of all the customers. Sidney Landfield is a good little bad boy, and showed his ability when he carried away the house after his act had been the victim of circumstances on account of a disturbance in the audience.

Ernest Evans danced his way into the last act with a bevy of beautiful girls while the Adelphia sisters made an unusual impression with their moments of music and dance.

Outing Near Beach Is Held By Campfire Girls

Tatapochon Campfire girls are enjoying an outing this week at "Shady Rest" in Santa Monica canyon. The party includes Mrs. Roy Watrous, guardian; and Ruth Allington, Ruth Hudson, Edith McIntyre, Josephine Franklin, Betty Budd, Willa Hoyt Budd, Grace Thompson, Mary Winifred Robinson, Mildred Wilson, Margaret Hudson, Ethel Ware, Rose Watrous, Marjorie Brown, Janice Fletcher, Margaret Knight. The daily schedule in camp includes: Reveille, setting-up exercises, breakfast, tent inspection, meeting, lunch, rest hour, quiet recreation, swimming, dinner, campfire, and taps.

AT LA CRESCENTA

LA CRESCENTA, June 30.—"California in '49" is proving a big attraction from the number of tickets sold by the young contestants to assist the Montrose Chamber of Commerce in making a success of the Fourth of July program at the Montrose theatre. Through the courtesy of the Montrose Theatre Co. the chamber has been allowed the use of the picture house and reels on the Fourth to raise funds for the completion of the new park at Orangedale.

Manager Doyle secured a feature picture with a comedy. The Montrose trio conducted by Miss Eleanor Clark will furnish musical numbers. Miss Clark also will conduct a quartet. Mrs. Imogene Smith has arranged songs. B. F. Fredericks and G. Ackley have donated a good watch, each person having a chance on it. A. N. Villmur has donated a cash prize for the ticket sellers. Other prizes will also be given the children.

Miss Ruth Townsend of Park City, Utah, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. R. Q. MacDonald, of Highway Highlands for the summer.

Mrs. S. H. Wetmore, president of the La Crescenta Women's club, received 100 coat hangers from the Fanset Co. of Glendale for use in the club check rooms.

SALVADORE AND O'BRIEN TONIGHT

Slugging Pair Meet In Main Event At Vernon; Expect Plenty of Action

All things point to a real slugging match tonight at Vernon, when Tommy O'Brien and Phil Salvadore square off for their ten-round main event. Phil lost to Sammy Mandell in ten rounds at Ascot early this month and O'Brien won from Ace Hudkins on a foul. O'Brien fights best when hurt and Salvadore is at his best when infighting.

The semi-windup of six rounds will bring together Sailor Billy Vincent and Pete Bross, and this bout should provide plenty of interest for fans. It looks like an old-time slugging bee. Earl Blue and Tom Kelly hook up in the special preliminary of six rounds. Kelly stepped out with Hayden Pythian last Friday night and proved he has plenty of punches to swap.

There will be two four-round affairs on the card. Billy Quilter and Jimmy Gould, bantamweights and Dave Mustaffo and Tommy Bunch, lightweights, will tangle during the early part of the program.

MONTROSE

MONTROSE June 30.—Charles Dyer, Chicago, was the speaker of the day at the Montrose-La Crescenta Kiwanis club yesterday. Introduced by Dr. L. Johns as an old friend, Dyer, a criminal lawyer, stated he expected at last to make his home in California. Dyer stated everyone should keep the laws, as this is the only country where the laws are made by the people.

As Dr. Wemple, chairman of the meeting, was called away, Lee Meritt, secretary, had charge of the meeting. He read telegrams from Bernard Anawalt, who wired from St. Paul that the delegation had arrived safely after having stopped over in the Grand Canyon. The St. Paul welcome was all that could have been asked. Greetings were also sent from Abe and Don. C. C. Stewart of the Star Motor agency thanked the boys for their expression of sympathy during his recent bereavement.

Dr. Johns of Montrose gave an interesting talk on dentistry. The doctor gave America the credit for having advanced in dental art above any other country. Songs by the members, with Phil Belanger at the piano closed the meeting, which was at the Oakmont Country club.

One hundred per cent attendance was noted at the Sunday school picnic of the Montrose Methodist church at Brookside park. Swimming, tennis, races and other pastimes were enjoyed.

Rev. and Mrs. George L. Durr attended the camp meeting held at the Palisades over the weekend. Rev. C. W. Butler, who is conducting the meetings, is an old collegiate friend of Rev. Durr.

Fred Deal of the Glendale office of the Bell Telephone Co. was a visitor at the Montrose-La Crescenta Kiwanis luncheon at Oakmont Country club yesterday.

Mildred Maranville has left for a trip into Yosemite valley.

There will be no meeting of the P.-T. A. Reading Circle this week, owing to the many plans for the celebration of the Fourth. Next week the circle will meet at the home of Mrs. A. F. Hopkins in Highway Highlands.

Residents of Montrose were saddened today by news of the death of Herbert Engells, brother of Robert, who was buried Friday afternoon. Herbert was stricken Friday night at the family residence on East Montrose avenue and removed to the General hospital in Los Angeles. He was suffering from meningitis. Apparently in better condition than any time since his brother's illness, Herbert wished to be brought home late Sunday, but passed away Sunday night. An autopsy was performed.

Besides his mother, Mrs. Florence Engells, the deceased leaves his father, Bert Engells, Mrs. L. G. Marsh, his grandmother, and Mrs. L. M. Heimer, aunt. The funeral, which was strictly private, was in charge of the Durr Undertaking Co. in the interment in Grand View Memorial cemetery. The family expressed thanks for the beautiful floral pieces at the funerals.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Baskins of West Hermosa street were victims of a peculiar accident when motoring Sunday. Driving around the Arroyo Seco the car was coming down a steep hill when the brakes refused to work. In order to save the family from being thrown down into the arroyo, Haskins drove the machine into the embankment. The car was wrecked so badly Baskins pushed it over into the Arroyo to clear the road for motorists. None of the family was injured aside from the shock.

MANY AT REUNION

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Vickers of Eagle Rock, together with Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Playter of Palms, spent the week-end in Santa Ana. From 1000 to 1200 people attended the reunion of old Santa Ana inhabitants held Sunday. Many came from Los Angeles. Representatives from Riverside, Victoria, Pomona and other California cities were present. The reunion will be made an annual affair, it was decided.

Send Letters East Telling Of Earthquake

William A. Horn, Glendale realtor, today offers the suggestion that Glendalians offset adverse publicity published in eastern papers to the effect that the earthquake yesterday destroyed parts of Los Angeles and surrounding cities. Mr. Horn suggests that residents of this city who have friends in the east write them concerning the quake, giving the real facts, and request that these letters be published in their home papers.

San Fernando Plans Outlined At Banquet

The program of the Greater San Fernando Valley association for the coming year was outlined by the association members at the first annual banquet, held last night at the Alexandria hotel, Los Angeles.

The meeting was well attended and much enthusiasm was expressed over the work accomplished by the organization in its first year and over future plans for improving San Fernando valley. Projects to be taken up the coming year include better and more complete rapid transit, a complete boulevard system, plentiful water supply and sewer improvements.

Los Angeles experts addressed members and their guests as part of the evening's program. David Faries, executive vice-president of the Los Angeles Traffic commission, spoke, as did John French of the city engineering department, and G. Gordon Whitnall, director of the City Planning commission. Harry Chandler and C. G. Milham, the latter secretary of the All Year club of Southern California, addressed the members and guests. Charles H. Randall, councilman-elect for the first district, Los Angeles, gave a talk.

A. Z. Taft, jr., president of the association, presided, and Robert L. Hanley was toastmaster.

WOMEN HURT WHEN AUTO OVERTURNS

Two Are Seriously Injured In Driver's Attempt To Avoid Collision

Turning turtle when he made a sharp turn to avoid colliding with another machine, Paul Auld narrowly escaped death and two other occupants of his car were seriously injured in an automobile accident at Brand boulevard and Park avenue just before noon today.

Mrs. Ida G. Auld, 826 Green street, Glendale, was seriously cut about the head and injured internally when the car turned over. Her daughter, Miss Almira Auld, of the same address, also sustained serious injuries, the extent of which were not determined by attending surgeons at the Glendale hospital.

Wheel Gives Way

Paul Auld, son of Mrs. Ida Auld, was driving the small touring car when the accident occurred. According to his report to police, he was traveling north on Brand boulevard, but, seeing another machine approaching on Park avenue from the left, he made a desperate effort to avoid a collision by turning right on Park. As he made the turn the front wheel of his car gave way and it turned over.

Auld, his mother, sister and another woman, Mrs. Russell Jacque, were saved from being crushed to death when the body of the overturned machine rested against another automobile parked along the curb. The other car, belonging to J. F. Conrin of Hollywood, was slightly damaged.

Santa Monica's Elks And Band Come Here

Santa Monica Elks, headed by officers of the lodge and the Santa Monica Elks' band, paid an official visit to Glendale lodge last night, conferring degree work and presenting a long program of entertainment.

An hour's band concert and songs and dances by Chief Clearsky and his band of Hopi Indians, attired in their native costumes, featured the program. Numbers were also furnished by the beach city booster club.

Following the regular meeting in the lodge rooms, the antlered herd were entertained by members of the Glendale fire department. They were startled when a fake alarm brought out engines from two city fire stations but again gained composure when the fire department quartet sang harmonious melodies. Gus Pulliam had general supervision of the entertainment.

New Hotel Opening Is Announced As July 11

Glendale will disport in the gala attire of old Spanish days Saturday night, July 11, when the opening of the Hotel Glendale is formally celebrated with a huge Spanish costume dance to mark the advent of the California Festival Year observance in Glendale.

The official date of the hotel opening was announced this morning by C. W. Ingledue, Chamber of Commerce officials, headed by George F. Orgibet, and members of the board of directors, will sponsor the big Spanish fete. Officials of all service clubs, the city, Glendale Realty board, women's clubs and other organizations have been invited to participate in the event.

C. G. Milham, executive secretary of the California All-Year club and sponsor of the Festival Year idea, will be the special guest of honor. Representatives of all Southern California Chambers of Commerce will be invited.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Harrison Wileman of 527 Palm drive are the parents of a daughter, born this morning, Tuesday, June 30, 1925, at Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital.

The United States Steel corporation has quit making horseshoes.

Pet Rat's Bite Ends Life of Boy by Rabies

Rabies, caused from the bite of a pet rat, claimed the life of Richard Gaede, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Gaede, 324 West Cerritos avenue, according to the report of autopsy surgeons today.

Following a week of baffling illness the boy died last Saturday night and it was not until after the autopsy that the cause of death was determined. Dr. T. J. Tillmans, Los Angeles physician who attended the boy, and Dr. G. Kaemmerling, Glendale city health officer, conferring with the coroner's surgeons, determined that the child must have been bitten by his pet white rat five or six weeks ago and that the animal was affected with rabies at the time.

Dr. Kaemmerling declared that the case is one of the few on record where rats have been found to carry rabies. Funeral arrangements are in charge of a Los Angeles undertaking company.

Glendale W. C. T. U. To Join County Meeting

Members of the Glendale Women's Christian Temperance Union are planning to attend the Los Angeles county W. C. T. U. day of prayer, which will be held tomorrow from 9:30 o'clock to 4 o'clock, at Trinity Methodist church, corner of Twelfth and Flower streets, Los Angeles. Mrs. Hattie M. Doughty, county W. C. T. U. president, will be among the speakers. Special music has been arranged. Miss Helen Byrnes, county superintendent of evangelism, will be in charge.

Announcement has been made that the national W. C. T. U. convention will be held November 13 to November 19 at Detroit, Mich. Mrs. Mattie Gregg of Whittier and Dr. Lon M. Hutchens of Los Angeles have returned from Edinburgh, Scotland, where they attended the world convention. A citizenship institute will be conducted August 17 to 22 at Chautauqua, N. Y.

RETURN FROM EAST

Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Cunningham returned yesterday from a honeymoon trip to Bowen, Ill., where they have been visiting relatives and friends for the past two months. Mrs. Cunningham was Miss Esther Neal of Los Angeles before her marriage on May 30, 1925, at Riverside. Mr. Cunningham has made his home with Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Robinson at 420 West Oak street for the past two years. He has been employed by the Central Hardware Co. of Hollywood for three years and will now have charge of one of the stores in Hollywood. They are making their home at 538 North Kingsley drive, Hollywood.

POISON FISH KILLS TWO

HONOLULU, Hawaii, June 30.—Eating a poisonous variety of balloon fish, known among the Hawaiians as oopuhue, caused the death of two Chinese in this city recently. The men succumbed within twenty minutes from the time they had partaken of the fish. Members of their families stated that the men had been previously told the fish were poison, but apparently considered the story only a superstition among the native fishermen.

SPEEDER ENTERS PLEA

Robert E. Roskopf, 5511 York boulevard, pleaded not guilty in Police Judge F. H. Lowe's court today on a charge of driving his automobile 70 miles an hour on Canada boulevard. He was released under $500 bond to appear for a jury trial at 9 a. m., July 21.

W. W. Bulett, 216 West Palmer avenue, was sentenced to sixty days in the county jail on a charge of petit larceny, and he was granted probation for a period of two years.

SERVED OUTDOORS

Out-of-doors luncheons and diners protected from the heat will be served at the Palm Gardens, 300 East Harvard street, corner of Louise street, which will open tomorrow. Sandwiches and salads will be served. On the opening day free lemonade will be supplied with each order.

CITY NAMES CENSORS OF MAGAZINES

Council, At Suggestion Of Police Chief, Acts To Protect Children

Glendale today established the first board of magazine censors in California, with the appointment by the City Council of Mrs. E. S. McKee, 130 West Chestnut street, vice-president of the Tuesday Afternoon club; L. L. Woods, 246½ North Kenwood street and T. W. Preston, 330 North Jackson street to censor both motion pictures and periodicals.

The board will serve without compensation. Besides reviewing films shown in local theatres, the members will be expected to read and carefully check the contents of questionable magazines sold at Glendale newsstands, and to report to Chief of Police John D. Fraser on all periodicals that the board believes are detrimental to the morals of Glendale readers.

Scores 'Bad' Magazines

While Glendale has had a motion picture censorship body for several years, it is the first time in California's history, it was said today, that a board has ever been created to censor magazines. It was on Chief Fraser's recommendation that its duties were extended to the periodical field.

"There are a lot of magazines being sold in Glendale today that are corrupting the morals of school children and youths," declared Chief Fraser. "It is a hard situation to cope with. I believe that with the co-operation of the censorship board and the local newsdealers that we can rid the city of this type of literature."

EXCHANGE CLUB OFFERS SYMPATHY

Letter Tendering Assistance And Funds Authorized By Members Today

Members of the Exchange club today voted to send a letter of sympathy to the citizens of Santa Barbara through the Santa Barbara Exchange club, and also tender any assistance and funds needed. This action was taken at the meeting held at the Masonic temple, when Councilman C. E. Kimlin made such a motion. The letter will be dispatched to Santa Barbara this afternoon and a copy will be carried to Santa Barbara tomorrow by R. E. Johnston, member of the club.

Short talks were given by the various members of the club. A. J. Lockwood spoke on the recent meeting of club representatives here. Pete Neise reported on the success of the Exchange club bowling team. Prseident William Baker presided at the meeting.

AUTO MAN FINDS PLENTY OF FISH

Western Supply Manager And Party Enjoy Angling At Big Bear Resort

C. H. Roudebush, local manager of the Western Auto Supply Co., 205 South Brand boulevard, has returned to his duties following a most enjoyable vacation outing at Fawnshin camp, Big Bear lake.

The outing party included Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Roudebush, Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Pitcher of 608 South Pacific avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. H. I. Baker of 475 Riverdale drive. They made the trip to the valley in machines, by way of City creek road. The return was by way of Lake Arrowhead. They report ideal weather conditions and fine roads.

A feature of the outing was the trout fishing. Among the fish caught were a number of four and five-pounders.

Eight More Guardsmen Needed For Camp Trip

Eight more men are needed to fill the quota of national guardsmen who will camp at Del Monte beginning July 3. Sixty men are signed up for the two weeks' trip. Transportation, food, lodging and a good time are assured free, with salary paid as well. The camp is at the polo field.

Camp program calls for reveille at 5:45 o'clock, with drill and maneuvers from 7:30 until 11:30 o'clock. In the afternoon, organized athletics are the order. From Saturday noon until Monday morning the men are on forty-eight hours' leave of absence. One of the main features will be the overnight bivouac.

In the event of an enlisted man's moving away from the state he is not held to his three-year enlistment term. A regiment composed of San Fernando valley men is in contemplation and chances of promotion for men enlisting now are excellent. Duties of the National Guard include in time of peace service during any local calamity, such as the Santa Barbara earthquake.

Applicants for enlistment must be over 18 years and not much over 30, high school education preferred. Call at the Burbank armory and ask for Lieut. Ted Covel.

NEW YORK CLOSING

By W. S. COUSINS
For International News Service

NEW YORK, June 30.—Few evidences of yesterday's reactionary price movement in stocks were to be seen in the market today. Though trading was almost exclusively professional and speculative interest confined to a comparatively small number of industrial and specialty stocks, the trend of prices was distinctly upward, with high-priced leaders responding to the aggressive tactics of professional bulls.

Outside the industrial leaders, like American Can and Baldwin, the motor and motor accessory stocks were the leaders in today's rally. Stocks of the mercantile companies, dry goods and foodstuffs distributors commanded an active market at moderate price gains. Tobacco stocks and independent steel shares moved forward aggressively. The oil stocks, rails, coppers and the great mass of well-known industrial and specialty stocks were completely neglected and price changes in them were therefore negligible.

The American Can dividend meeting passed off without special action on the dividend of the common stock, causing no surprise in Wall street. After a slight decline, this stock again became aggressive and sold 4 point higher. Baldwin's strength was due to announcement that the Polish government had made a heavy payment to the company for material delivered a few years ago. Pullman, Cast Iron Pipe and other high-priced industrials were steady, and United States Steel sold above yesterday's price. Pierce-Arrow and General Motors featured the motor list.

A flurry in St. Paul common and preferred, in which prices moved upward nearly a point, was practically the only feature in the railroad stocks. Independent Oil-Gas sold 2 points high. California oils regained a part of their recent losses, and a few of the independent oil shares sold fractionally higher in the late trading. Otherwise the market was dull and narrow with transactions tapering off after the third hour.

Stock sales today, 1,199,400 shares; bonds, $10,277,000.

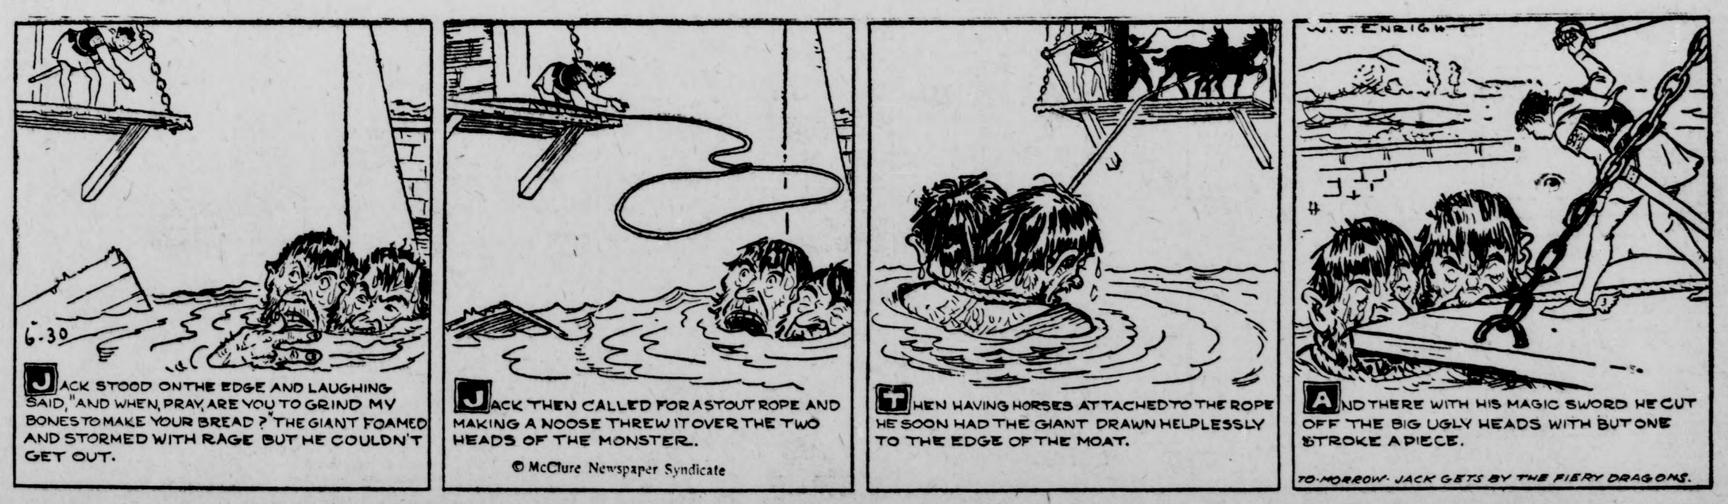
ONCE UPON A TIME — JACK, THE GIANT KILLER---II — BY W. J. ENRIGHT



6-30
JACK STOOD ON THE EDGE AND LAUGHING SAID, "AND WHEN, PRAY, ARE YOU TO GRIND MY BONES TO MAKE YOUR BREAD?" THE GIANT FOAMED AND STORMED WITH RAGE BUT HE COULDN'T GET OUT.
JACK THEN CALLED FOR A STOUT ROPE AND MAKING A NOOSE THREW IT OVER THE TWO HEADS OF THE MONSTER.
© McClure Newspaper Syndicate
THEN HAVING HORSES ATTACHED TO THE ROPE HE SOON HAD THE GIANT DRAWN HELPLESSLY TO THE EDGE OF THE MOAT.
W. J. ENRIGHT
AND THERE WITH HIS MAGIC SWORD HE CUT OFF THE BIG UGLY HEADS WITH BUT ONE STROKE A PIECE.
TO-MORROW: JACK GETS BY THE FIERY DRAGONS.

HUGE MOONSHINE

PRESCOTT, June 30. — The largest cache of liquor ever confiscated in Arizona was taken by Sheriff Weil of Yavapai county. One hundred and forty gallons of moonshine whiskey containing a high percentage of alcohol valued at more than $4500 was seized near this city where it was being secreted. Two men were accused of manufacturing the product.

WOOL PRICES GO UP

FORT WORTH, Tex., June 30.—The Shreiner Wool & Mohair Commission Co., has sold to Jeremiah Williams & Co., of Boston, 1,600,000 pounds of wool at prices ranging up to forty-fve cents a pound, the highest price paid for wool in Texas this year.

LABOR FINDING WORK EASY TO OBTAIN

Favorable Factor In Nation As Whole According to Figures Gathered

By J. C. ROYLE
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, June 30.—The favorable factors in the week's news undoubtedly outweighed unfavorable reports but while the bright spots in the business sky grew brighter, the clouds over some few industries showed no signs of lifting. Perhaps the most gratifying fact made evident was that employment is thoroughly satisfactory in the country as a whole. It has dropped slightly from spring levels but the level is still above that of the corresponding period of last year.

This means steady maintenance of purchasing power on the part of the bulk of the population. The call for farm labor has increased and the harvest demand has absorbed large numbers of idle workers. In some states, however, the word has gone out advising college students who put in the summer in harvest fields, not to leave home this year as the ranks are full.

More Workers Hired

One of the best barometers of business is the automobile manufacturing industry, since it reflects purchasing power in a decided way. Detroit, center of the industry, telegraphs today that latest reports show an increase of 1400 workers in the past week, bringing the total to 239,855, a new high record for this year. This represents a gain of 42,521 since January 1.

Reports for the last month from 365 cities show building gains as compared with the corresponding period of 1924. These figures are substantiated by the fact that building materials advanced in price. Brick shot up $1 a thousand in this city. Linseed oil advanced two cents a gallon. Permits issued for construction jobs in twenty-five of the principal cities in the last month totaled $245,734,098 and the value of contracts let in the last week for the country reached $51,554,000. Lumber production, shipments and sales were far ahead of this time last year.

Forest Service Says Smoking Must Cease

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—The United States forest service today announced closure orders on national forests, effective July 1, as follows:

Closed to smoking, except at improved camp grounds and improved places of habitation—Angeles national forest, Cleveland national forest, Santa Barbara national forest.

Closed to Camp fires and to smoking except at improved camp grounds and improved places of habitation—San Bernardino, Etiwanda, Day, Dear, San Sevaine, South Fork of Lytle creek, Santa Ana, Bear Creek, Arrowhead-Daley road trail, Arrowhead trails.

Closed to travel except under permit from local forest officers: San Bernardino national forest; Plunge creek. (this restriction does not apply to settlers going to and from their homes.)

SELL SMALL MELONS

ATLANTA, Ga., June 30.—Georgia melon growers have revised shipping requirements to allow marketing of watermelons of from 16 to 20 pounds instead of the 24-pound minimum limit last year. The smaller melons are equally high in quality and should reach consumers at lower prices than they have been accustomed to pay.

QUESTION SANITY

LOS ANGELES, June 30.—Alienists today began an investigation into the sanity of Wallace C. Watson, former soldier, arrested at Long Beach, Cal., after C. E. Shirey, a Los Angeles salesman, accused him of a plot to poison his mother in order to obtain her $70,000 estate.

WHITE-FACED CHIMPANZEE IS SHOWN

Nearest Approach To Man Is Guaranteed At Zoo In Lincoln Park

BY OWEN L. SCOTT
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

CHICAGO, June 30.—The only known white-faced chimpanzee in this country, the nearest relative to man in evolution's family tree, is coming to Chicago this week to get a favorable place along evolution row in the Lincoln park zoo.

Chicago paid such a stiff price —$1200—for this intelligent-looking member of the aristocracy of the ape race, that the suggestion is being made for him to grace the Dayton trial as concrete evidence of the type of creature a high class modern monkey can become.

But Chicago's white faced chimpanzee is only a kid, according to the explanation of assistant Director F. S. Young, of the Chicago Zoo.

"He's just 6 years old, and far from matured," Mr. Young advises. "His intelligence is about that of a two year old child, but still it is astonishingly well developed for an ape. Where shown, he has created somewhat of a sensation.

"The chimpanzee is considered next to the gorilla, man's nearest relative in the animal kingdom, and the white faced chimpanzee is the highest type of that genus. Since gorillas very seldom can be kept in captivity, for all practical purposes of study, the chimpanzee serves. And he is astonishingly intelligent."

Working mith ordinary chimpanzees, psychologists have recently determined that these animals can reason. When the bright visaged Chicagoan completes his journey from South Africa by getting his favored home in the zoo here and grows up under skilled care, mention is made that he might surprise even William Jennings Bryan.

Will Rule Animals

While Mr. Young isn't willing to vouch for the recently expressed belief that the only reason monkeys don't talk is because they know they'll be put to work if they do, he does think that the young white faced champanzee will one day perform some interesting mental feats.

As yet unnamed, the highest of man-like apes, when sitting, is 31 inches tall and when standing 41 inches. When in full manhood he will be somewhat larger—a real ruler for the Lincoln Park monkey house. As monkey king he is to have a large 15 foot square glass fronted room from which to study the public.

Zoo officials think that the entry into the country at this time of the highest type of man-like apes will cause serious contemplation on the part of zoo visitors.

Driver of Death Car Given Heavy Penalty

LOS ANGELES, June 30.—Irving Earl Oliver, 28, driver of the speeding automobile which wiped out the entire family of Sidney Kahn and left only a tiny Caesarian baby as a survivor, was sentenced by Superior Judge Carlos S. Hardy yesterday to serve two years on the county chain gang and ordered to pay $25 a month for the baby's support for the next ten years.

The sentence followed Oliver's entering pleas of guilty to manslaughter and driving while intoxicated. He was given the jail sentence upon the latter charge and was granted probation for the manslaughter count upon the condition that he support the child he orphaned as the result of his drunken ride.

The clash, which resulted in the death of Sidney Kahn, Minnie Kahn, his wife, and Selma Kahn, a 4-year-old daughter, occurred at the corner of Boyle and Brooklyn avenues on the evening of February 8.

'Perfect Crime' Tried Just For Experiment

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—Money was not the consideration back of what C. Russell Crawford, 23, and Bliss Baker, 20, alleged amateur criminologists, believed was to have been "the perfect crime." The experiment was the thing.

These were the statements made to the police here today by Crawford, declared by officers to be the "master mind" back of the sensational $50,000 kidnaping plot against Mrs. Daniel C. Jackling, wife of a multi-millionaire western mining man. The plot, according to the police, was a crude, bungling effort.

Crawford is said to be a former law student of the University of Oregon. Baker is a University of California senior, registered in commerce.

Crawford was arrested in Redwood City, south of San Francisco, late Saturday night, several hours after Baker is said to have broken down in jail and named Crawford as the "brains" of the alleged conspiracy.

The plot involved a threat to inoculate Mrs. Jackling with disease germs in lieu of a $50,000 ransom.

The world used 6,232,000 bales of American cotton in the last six months of 1924.

OWNERSHIP OF POLAR LAND NOT ISSUE

State Department Reports No Canadian Protests On Any Claims

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The department of state would be just as happy if the discussion over who shall claim the land the MacMillan expedition may discover would cease. This, in effect, is the answer which MacMillan himself received from the government here just before his departure for the north.

Washington officials realize that the reiterated predictions of the American expedition that land would be found and claimed for the United States have not been any too well received in Canada and that every time the subject has been raised it has added an irritation which in the end may prove to have been wholly superfluous.

In the first place, nobody is certain there is land in the unexplored area. Hence the department of state refuses to enter into a hypothetical controversy with so good a neighbor as Canada. When land is disc

TAXICAB ROW HEARD BY COUNCIL

Request Of One Company For Reserved Parking Meets With Refusal

Declaring that the four taxicab companies represented in Glendale are "continually fighting and coming to blows," Chief of Police John D. Fraser today urged the City Council to refuse an oral request from J. Nish, manager of the Yellow Taxi Co. stand here, for a reserved space on Brand boulevard.

Nish appeared before the council today and asked the reserved parking space "as a favor" because of "public service" his company renders Glendale. Other companies operating here, he said, own their own cars and are able to keep parking space by shunting one machine into places vacated by other taxis. He said that unless he was not permitted special parking space that his "expenses will run him out of business."

He pays his drivers $10 per day and 30 per cent on the gross above that amount, he told the council.

Chief Gives Views

"It is just a case of dog eat dog among the taxi men in Glendale," declared Chief Fraser. "I have had them in my office half a dozen times and have warned them to 'be good.' To settle disputes I have given each of them a corner which they may occupy along with other automobiles near Brand boulevard and Broadway. Nish's cars are on the southwest corner.

"But they have been fighting among themselves and have been even coming tto blows. They fight for customers on the street. They are jealous of each other and this request is but an outburst from one of them for special privilege that the others haven't got."

Chief Fraser was instructed by the council to draft plans for an ordinance to cover the situation. The council, however, denied Nish's place for reserved parking space.

ADMITS TRIAL OF SCOPES IS HOAX

Dayton Evolution Test Case Conceived As Publicity Stunt, Is Report

DAYTON, Tenn., June 30.—A new turn to the J. C. Scopes "evolution trial" was given today when J. F. Rapplea admitted to International News Service that he conceived the test as a publicity stunt for Dayton. In describing the inside story of the suit, he said, he was aided by F. E. Robinson, chairman of the Rhea county Board of Education, and Walter White, the local superintendent of schools. Scopes did not know of the plans until they asked him to become a "voluntary" defendant, he said.

The Scopes defense, Rapplea added, is being financed by the American Civil Liberties union of New York, and that the test case was held up until the union agreed to foot the bills.

The supit was born, said Rapplea, in his coalyard office on May 4, when he read a newspaper which disclosed that Chattanooga would not attempt to stage a test case.

"That gave me the idea," he said, "and I telephoned Robinson and White, asking them to get in on a test case. I met them later in the day, but it was not until the following day that they agreed."

Fine Refrigerator Men For Price Agreement

CHICAGO, June 30.—Fifteen refrigerating concerns and one individual pleaded guilty in federal court today to indictments charging them with violating the Sherman anti-trust law by combining to keep up prices of refrigerators and were given fines ranging from $2000 to $5000. This is the second batch of furniture manufacturers to plead guilty to wholesale indictments. Two weeks ago the chair manufacturers were fined. Later manufacturers of bed room and dining room furniture will enter pleas.

OIL FLOW DECREASES

SHREVEPORT, La., June 30.—Daily oil production in the Louisiana and Arkansas fields in the last week continued to decline, the drop aggregating 27,200 barrels.

LEGAL BLOCK FOR FLOOD CONTROL

Complete Right Of Way Is Necessary To Carry Out District Plans

Formation of an assessment district to raise funds with which to cover the flood control channel to be constructed in the southeastern part of Glendale by the county flood control board today met with legal obstacles, when Assistant City Attorney Leslie Tarr told the City Council that without a complete right of way and easements over the right of way from the county the law will not permit such a district to be formed.

The county obtains its right of way through individual lots generally as the work of constructing the channel approaches them, according to information received by City Manager V. B. Stone. A county assessment district under the flood control act cannot be formed because all of the work is within the Glendale city limits.

Demand Action

R. Belcher, representing the Southeast Glendale Improvement association, today declared to the council that "property owners along the line of the proposed channel want something done." He suggested that a committee composed of the council and a member of the improvement association wait on the Board of Supervisors in an effort to reach a final agreement.

City Manager Stone and Tarr, however, were instructed by the council to confer with county authorities and to determine what can be done to cover the ditch its entire length. Belcher argued that such a city assessment district can be formed.

City Manager Stone was instructed by the council today to invite property owners in the vicinity of the proposed Broadway crossings across the Southern Pacific tracks to confer with the council in connection with expenditure of funds for installing and maintaining a crossing at that point, urged last week by Peter Ferry, local contractor.

Makes Estimate

Stone reported that to comply with the order of the State Railroad commission a wigwag, costing $1592, must be installed, paving will cost $850 for the city and $2150 for the railroad; a shelter house for a watchman must be constructed by the city and Glendale must pay half of a watchman's salary for a period of two years under contract with the Southern Pacific Co.

The council today fixed thirty feet as the maximum allowed on any street in Glendale for entrances to oil stations. It also approved the action of Building Superintendent H. C. Vandewater in "discharging" from the city's employ, J. H. Wittmeyer, city electrical inspector.

Vandewater, who discussed the matter with the council in committee of the whole, refused to divulge the reason for the discharge.

Seven Persons Hurt In Auto Accidents

Seven persons were injured, none seriously, in three automobile accidents last night. Helen Pease, 749 South Norton street, Los Angeles, and Velma Reid, 645 Heliotrope drive, Los Angeles, were brought to the Glendale hospital after their car had gotten out of control and turned over on the highway near Sunland. They were on their way to a University of Southern California sorority picnic, they said.

Mrs. Charles Dudley, 359½ Laurel avenue, Hollywood, was badly gashed about the head, and her two children were less seriously injured when a long string of cars in line of traffic on Los Feliz road suddenly stopped. Her machine crashed into the car ahead of her, she said. They were brought to the Glendale hospital.

Mrs. John D. Cole, 628 North Orange street, suffered a wrenched arm when a machine driven by P. J. Hanlon, 609½ South Myrtle street, Monrovia, crashed into the car driven by Police Desk Sergeant Cole at Verdugo Canyon road and Glendale avenue. Cole, driving north on Glendale avenue, sounded his horn, he reported to the police, when he approached the intersection. Hanlon, whose car was standing at a service station, drove out as the Cole car approached, according to the report. The front wheels of Hanlon's car were driven up on the running board and front fender of Cole's automobile. Mrs. Cole was examined by Dr. G. Kaemmerling and taken to her home.

COURT ACTION THREATENS COUNCIL

Failure To Place Portion Of Chevy Chase In Zone Results In Protest

Appeal to the superior court over the action today of the City Council in denying a petition to place Chevy Chase drive, from Wilson avenue to Verdugo Canyon road in a commercial zone, will be taken by a group of property owners on Chevy Chase drive, D. A. Robertson, 1229 East California street announced during the council session.

He rebuked the councilmen for "failure to keep pre-election pledges" and for "refusing to grant the wishes of the people."

The petition, signed by 45.7 per cent of the property frontage in the district affected, was disapproved by the Glendale Planning commission in line with a recently avowed policy of that body to permit no business frontage on Chevy Chase drive. Before the council a week ago discussion of the petition was continued until today.

Plan Business Blocks

Plans had already been put under way, according to Robertson, to construct two modern business blocks to cost between $250,000 and $300,000. The council, however, stood pat on its decision to deny the petition on the ground that "there is already too much vacant business property in the city."

"I don't suppose that any argument I might put forth would have any effect on your action," said Robertson. "But I would like you to know the feelings of the people who own property there. You men were elected on pre-election promises to give the people what they ask for, and the people in that vicinity have certainly asked that the district be placed in a commercial zone.

"I just want you men to know that we will appeal from your decision. The courts will be asked to decide whether or not we should be permitted to improve that portion of Glendale. By your action today you have tied up between $250,000 and $300,000 in improvements."

Motion to deny the petition was made by Councilman C. J. Hatz, who declared that business is already scattered too much in Glendale. Seconding the motion, Councilman S. C. Kinch said that he was following the recently avowed policy of the planning commission.

Robertson announced that he will obtain a certified copy of the petition with the signatures attached from City Clerk A. J. Van Wie to be used as evidence in legal proceedings.

Grass Fire Puts Many Phones Out Of Service

Nearly 250 telephones were thrown out of service temporarily at 8 o'clock this morning when cables at Sonora avenue and Glenoaks boulevard were accidentally burned in a grass fire, stated Fred Deal, manager of the Glendale Branch of the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co.

The phones, some of which served Forest Lawn Memorial park, the fire station and other places, will not be in service until late tonight or tomorrow morning. An emergency circuit was installed to serve the fire department. The fire was started on a permit.
